MISSOURI AND ARKANSAS BATTLING FLOODS

THOUSANDS ACRES ALREADY SUBMERGED; STRENGTHEN LEVEES

HEAVY RAIN ALONG TRIBUTARIES IN ARKANSAS EXPECTED BRING CRISIS

KENNETT, Mo., June 18.—(AP)—Unrelenting in the first battle against the rampaging St. Francis river, which has driven a thousand families from their homes in Southeast Missouri, a citizens' army pushed its strength against a 600-foot levee seven miles above the newest crevasse and early today apparently had won a skirmish from the river.

The total area submerged by three crevasses in two days was approximately a hundred thousand acres. Damage to crops and farms was estimated between a million and a half and two million dollars.

The present goal is to save a 25,000-acre expanse protected by the smaller levee, which has been bol[illegible]d several times since it was [illegible]t out by the 1927 floods. This [illegible]ion lies between the Cotton [illegible] railroad tracks and Crowley's [illegible]est of Campbell and just [illegible] the Arkansas line. It is se[illegible] miles upstream from the crevasse which developed Sunday morning, unundating 75,000 acres.

O. S. Harrison, Franklin county chairman of the Red Cross, called a committee meeting for today, after which rehabilitation steps will be taken for the homeless.

Warned by their experiences with previous floods, residences of this section fled before the levees gave way and no casualties have been reported.

NEWPORT, Ark., June 18.—(AP)—Heavy rains along the Little, Red, Black and other tributaries of the White river added to Arkansas flood worries today. Engineers said they could not determine before night, however, whether a serious new rise threatened.

While 40,000 acres in Jackson county were under water as a result of a break in the Stephens levee, 12 miles south of here, a 19 inch fall in the river relieved danger of a levee break on the St. Francis, at Nimmons, Ark., nine miles below where a second break occurred near Kennett, Mo., yesterday.

The crevasse at Stephens and one at Jacksport, together with a falling stage, had relieved the upper reaches of the White to some extent, and efforts were concentrated today at Jackson Bayou levee, about 24 miles south of Newport. The crest will not arrive there before 48 hours, and government engineers hoped to raise the embankment a foot or more above the expected top level in that time.

Refugees in Jackson county, living in tents and shacks until the flood releases their homes, worshipped Sunday in a small church built especially for use during high water.

Near Cotton Plant, however, it was a busy Sabbath, the men building up the levee as a precaution against the White river crest expected during the week, and the women and children carrying lunches to them.

Heavy Rains Check Fall.

NEWPORT, Ark., June 18.—(AP)—Heavy rains Saturday night and early Sunday checked the fall of the swollen White river here and will keep it stationary for the next 24 hours but general improvement in the flood situation was reported today.

Red Cross workers went out in motor boats today to survey the region. Indications were that the appuroximately 1,000 refugees would be able to return to their homes by the latter part of the week.

Negro Who Killed Youth At Large

[illegible]RT WORTH, June 18.—(AP)—A [illegible] who shot and killed Lawre[illegible] Barnett, 24, Dallas, here late Sunday night while Barnett and a party of six others from Dallas were en route to Lake Worth, was still at liberty today. Three shots were fired at the youth after he alighted from the automobile. The shooting followed an attack upon the automobile by the negro, who hurled rocks, witnesses said.

LEG NOT BROKEN.

WICHITA FALLS, June 18.—(AP)—Reports that Billy Mullen, newly purchased third baseman of Dallas Steers, had suffered a broken leg in yesterday's game here were denied today by officials of the Dallas club. Mullen's knee was twisted out of socket but he is expected to be ready to play today.

Daily Sun Special Train To Houston Convention Is Cancelled—Money Refunded

The Corsicana Daily Sun will not run a special train to Houston during the National Democratic convention. Cancellation of the train is caused by unforseen developments over which the Sun has no control.

After receiving every reasonable assurance, including a written order for 125 admissions into the convention auditorium for the Wednesday session, the Sun received a telegram from Jesse H. Jones stating this number could not be guaranteed. "It is not possible to assure you any definite number of tickets," Mr. Jones wired the Sun late Saturday. "We hope to be able to give you a reasonable allotment but I do not want to encourage you in the belief that you will get anything like the number you are counting on," the message from Jones continued. In conclusion the message stated: "I appreciate your spirit of co-operation and anxiety to make the convention a success and we want everyone in Texas to see the convention who possibly can but we cannot do the impossible." The message was signed "Jesse H. Jones."

Tickets Indefinite.

The fact that the number of tickets to be received by the Sun is so indefinite and the time of the convention is drawing so near causes the Sun to cancel the train. If the Sun cannot take care of the number, 125, as stated in the first announcement of the train, there would have to be a discrimination in the handing out of the tickets received and this the Sun will not attempt. It is also necessary to guarantee 125 railroad tickets to charter a special train.

The Sun started working up the special train following a written agreement whereby the Sun was to have an allotment of 125 admissions into the convention auditorium for the second day's session, Wednesday, June 27.

The authority for this allotment was received by the Sun in a letter as follows:

"Committee on Arrangements,
Democratic National Convention,
Democratic Building, Main at McKinney,
Houston, Texas,
June 10, 1928.

"This confirms our verbal understanding that you desire to obtain general admission for one hundred and twenty-five (125) of your citizens who will come to the convention on the second day, June 27th and that we will obtain such admission for your party.

T. J. Ahearn, Jr."

On the letterhead the following names appeared: "Clem Shaver, chairman, ex-officio; Jesse H. Jones, chairman and treasurer; T. J. Ahearn, Jr., secretary."

Demand Great.

It is surmised the demand for tickets at the last minute became so great that the committee found it impossible to make any large block of allotments.

The idea of running this special train was only as a service to the community the paper serves. Much time and considerable effort has been put forth and some money spent by the Sun in the attempt to get the Corsicana party into the convention auditorium. Without entrance into the convention auditorium absolutely assured for the party the Sun under no condition would sponsor the train to Houston. The whole affair was based upon getting into the convention auditorium.

It is with considerable regret the Sun is forced to cancel the train. It would have been a big thing for the city and county in addition to which a large number of our citizens would have been allowed the opportunity of witnessing a national political meeting in action.

The train was already assured as practically half of the reservations available had been disposed of and the remaining number would not have lasted but a few days. The conditions arising are unavoidable and the Sun is helpless other than to cancel the train.

To those who have made reservations the money will be mailed back at once or those desiring to do so may call at the Sun office where they will receive the refund.

Son Slays Father To Protect Mother

CHICAGO, June 18. —(AP)—Stanley Piekut, Jr., shot and killed his father early today to have his mtoher, he said, from attack.

The father, Stanley, Sr., was advancing toward Mrs. Helen Piekut, floushing a pair of shears, held like a dagger. The 20-year-old son snatched up a rusty revolver and pulled the trigger twice.

Woman Complains Of Chicago Crime And Then Robs

CHICAGO. June 18.—(AP)—"Conditions in Chicago are terrible," said the middle-age woman in a black coat who entered the candy shop of Mrs. Mary Stuebe early today. "It isn't safe for a person anywhere in this town."

She began fumbling in her handbag and extracted a pistol. She pointed it at Mrs. Stuebe, took all the money out of the cash register, and departed, leaving the storekeeper to ponder on conditions in Chicago.

POLLARD STATES WILL PROBE STATE SCHOOL FOR BOYS

AUSTIN, June 18.—(AP)—Attorney General Claude Pollard said Monday that he had not assigned any of his staff to investigate accounts of the state juvenile training school at Gatesville, but that he expects to go into the case "from cellar to garrett."

Mr. Pollard received the board of control's formal request Monday for an inquiry into the school's "bread and meat" finances, said to be about $14,000 behind on back accounts, with $2,000 more owing on goods ordered. This put the institution some three months behind with its supply money.

EARTHQUAKES ROCK REGION ALONG GULF COAST FOR TWO DAYS

SOME CASUALTIES AND HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE HAS RESULTED

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—(AP)—Terror reigned in Central and Southern Mexico today after earthquakes had shaken the region from the Gulf of Mexico to the Gulf of Tehuantepec for two days.

Apparently the only casualties occurred in the state of Oaxaca, dispatches from there stated: "There were casualties and numerous houses collapsed." The number of the victims was not given.

In many places people were camped in the open, refusing to re-enter their homes in fear of new tremors.

Oaxaca was just beginning to recover from an earthquake of two months ago and was the center of the disturbance. Fifty distinct shocks were felt there in the first hour of the quake Saturday night and tremors of lesser intensity were felt Sunday. Streets in the City of Oaxaca were cluttered with the debris of fallen walls.

Heavy seas rushed inland at Puerto Angel for a distance of 60 yards. Various warehouses along the waterfront were destroyed.

Big fissures were opened in the hills along the railroad tracks at Puchutla and landslides were threatened.

Some casualties occurred at Miahuatlan and the property damage was heavy.

In Mexico City the earthquakes were felt as late as 5:30 last night and these widened the cracks which had appeared in the streets and pavements. Many plate glass windows were shattered in the business section and a few adobe walls fell.

In the hotels groups of foreign tourists, including many Americans fled into the streets.

The movement in the capital was strong enough to swerve automobiles from their course and throw pedestrians from their feet. One of the hospitals reported a case of hysteria on the part of a taxicab driver. He became delirious with fear when his car skidded erratically. The driver lost control of his automobile and it plunged across the sidewalk at full speed, smashing into a building and cutting two passengers.

In every theatre the audiences dashed for exits. There were jams and crushes at the doors, but no serious injuries resulted.

In one theatre a motion picture depicting the life of Christ was being shown. A representation of the crucifixion was cast on the screen and the title describing how the veil of the temple was rent in twain at the moment of Christ's death had just been flashed when the first shock came.

The audience rushed for the street. Men and women crossed themselves and dropped to their knees on the sidewalks, envoking divine mercy. All attempts of theatre employees to stop the rush were futile.

The electric lights went off for a time and increased the panic. Water mains were also broken.

There was panic as well in Puebla, Vera Cruz and other towns. People rushed from their homes into the streets and plazas and fell upon their knees in prayer.

EIGHT DEAD AS RESULT OF TORNADO THAT SWEPT OVER SOUTHWESTERN OKLAHOMA

BLAIR, Okla., June 18.—(AP)—Eight persons believed dead and approximately 2,000 persons homeless was the result of a tornado that swept southwestern Oklahoma Saturday night. Jackson, Kiowa and Tillman counties spent Sunday administering first aid to those who had received minor injuries and checking the devastated area for further dead or injured.

The stricken town of Blair centered its attention today on the burial of its three dead—Elmer Castles, 35; Mrs. George A. Rogers, and Hugh Smith, 12. L. C. Cann, also of Blair, first reported killed, is in the city hospital at Atlus, suffering from a broken back. His recovery is considered doubtful.

Three negroes were reported killed on a bridge near Headrick, southeast of here, but confirmation could not be obtained.

Otis Rice, formerly of Kiowa county, was reported killed.

C. R. Fogle of Blair and E. A. Simpson of Headrick both were in the hospital at Mangum, suffering injuries but are expected to recover.

L. C. McHanna, Headrick postmaster, sustained a broken arm when the wind threw him violently to the ground.

Relief parties checking the devastated area were amazed at the low loss of life. Over the forty mile tornado area, from three to five miles wide, trees were uprooted, houses and barnes flattened and scarcely a splinter remained standing.

Rail and highway bridges in the tornado area were badly damaged and traffic was at a standstill. Wire communications are non-existent.

ENGINEER HURT IN AUTO CRASH.

RANGER, June 18.—(AP)—Frank Frazier of Baird, engineer for the Texas and Pacific Railway, probably was fatally injured, and W. F. Williams, plant foreman, and J. H. Anderson, mechanic, were less seriously injured when the automobile in which they were triding collided with one driven by Harvey Thurman, Cisco, near here last night.

Three Banks Close Doors in Florida; One to Avoid Run

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—The First American and the Citizens banks here failed to open for business today.

The Kedsey State bank at Kelsey City, adjoining West Palm Beach also was closed. A statement on the door of the First American said the bank was in the hands of the state banking department.

The Citizens bank's door bore the statement that the bank was closed to avoid a run, and for the protection of depositors. It was feared that a run on the Citizens would follow the closing the First American, it was said.

Carroll Pickering of Tupelo was in Corsicana on business Friday.

L. K. C. Fluker of Hester was in the city on business, Friday.

Other Presidential Campaigns 1924

(By The Associated Press.)

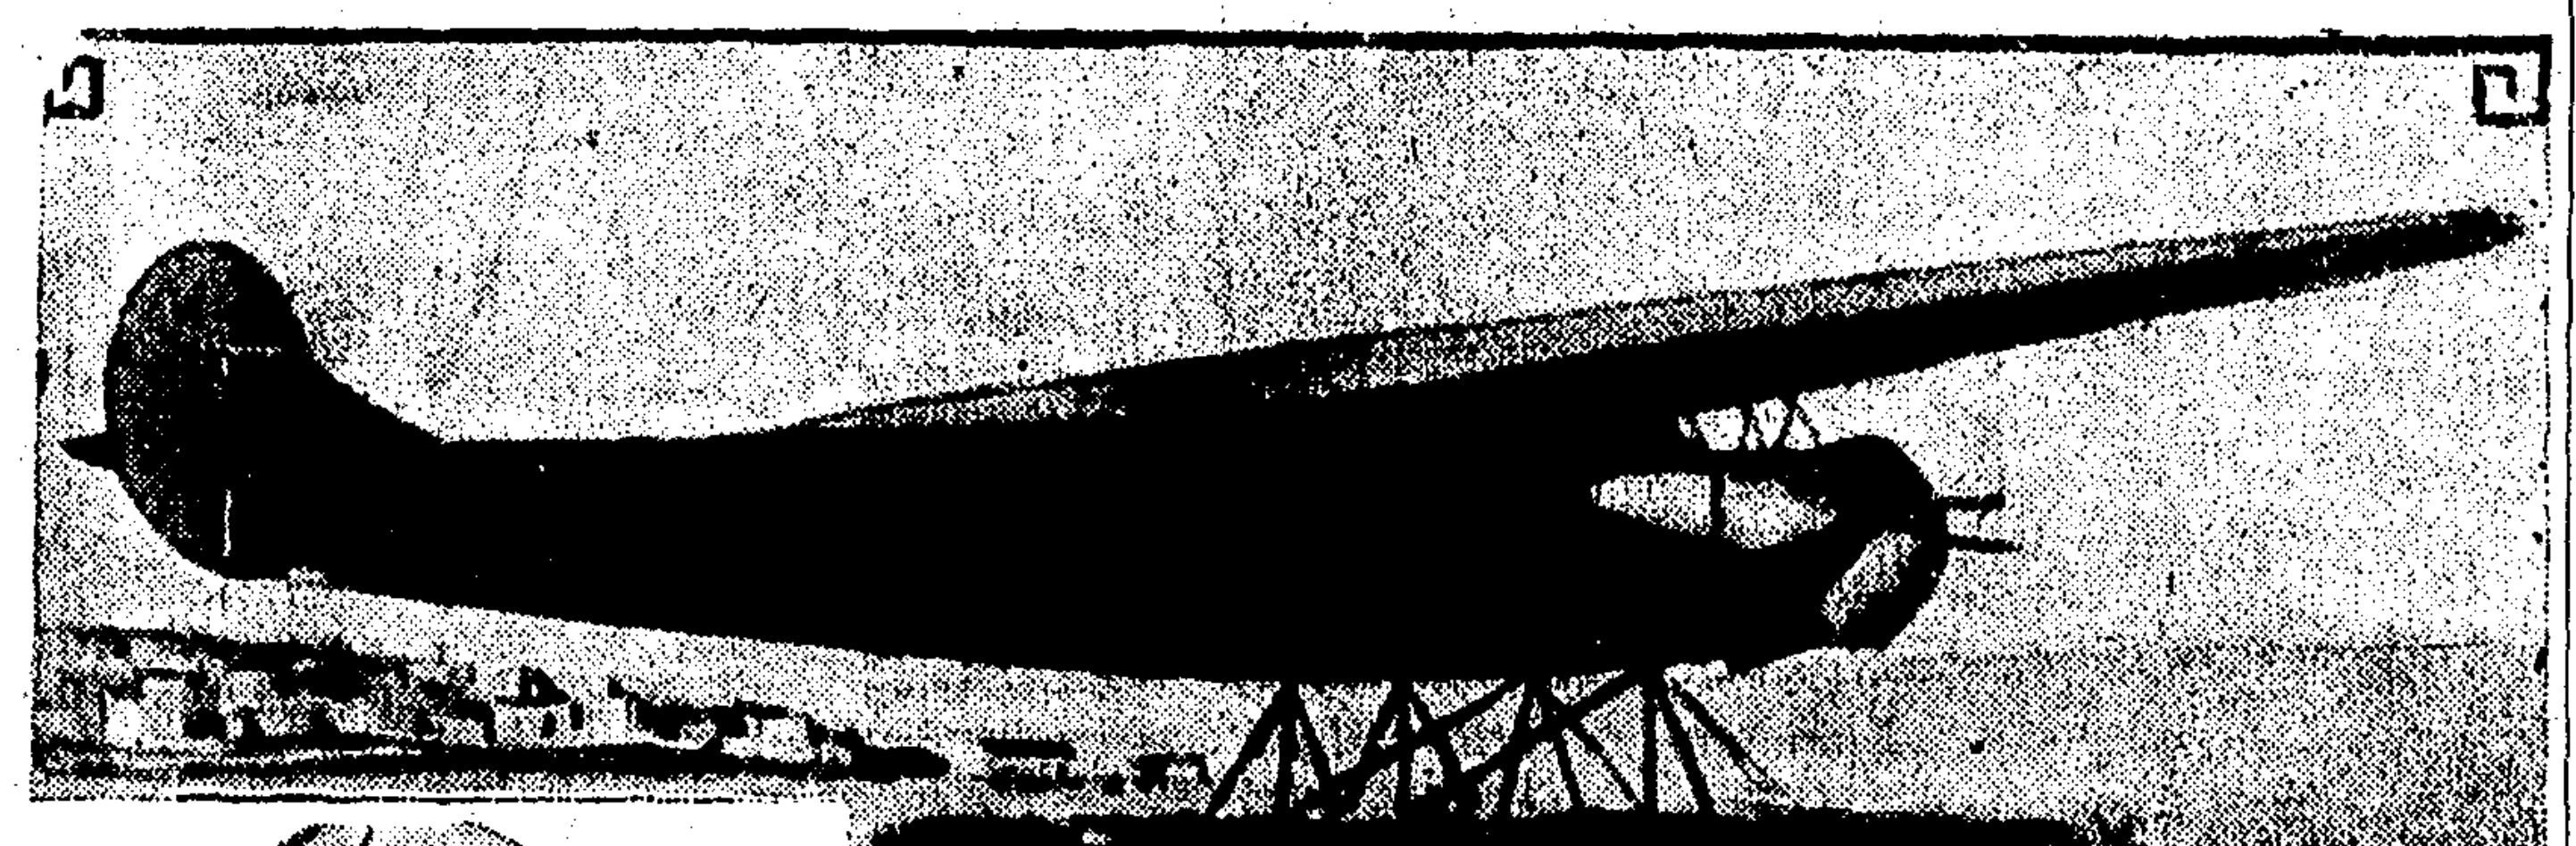
(This is the eighteenth in a series of sketches of presidential campaigns since 1856.)

The republican national conevntion of 1924 met at Cleveland on June 10, and nomiated President Coolidge as its candidate on the first ballot. In choosing a vice presidential nominee, however, a situation arose which had never been faced before. The party selected Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, and he declined. Then it picked Charles Gates Dawes of the same state.

The democrats met in Madison Square Garden, New York, on June 24, in what became the longest convention ever held by any political party. William Gibbs McAdoo and Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York were leaders for the nomination, but neither could muster two-thirds of the delegates. Those pledged to favorite sons, incuding Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama and John W. Davis of West Virginia, held fast to their candidates. On the one hundred and third ballot Davis was nominated, and Charles W. Bryan, governor of Nebraska and brother of William Jennings Bryan, was made his running mate.

The republican ticket was victorious by a popular plurality over the democrats of nearly 7,000,000 votes, notwithstanding the candidacy on a progressive ticket of Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin. The electoral vote was Coolidge 382, Davis 136, LaFollette 13.

GIRL AND PLANE THAT HOPPED ATLANTIC



After numerous heartbreaking attempts to take off from the waters at Trepassy Bay, New Foundland, the big tri-motored monoplane, Friendship, took off Sunday morning and after a flight through rain and fog, arrived at Burry Estuary, off Burry Port, Wales, at 12:40 p. m., Monday, just 20 hours and 49 minutes after the takeoff. Above is a picture of the big plane while at the right is a picture of Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston society girl and aviatrix, known as Boston's "Lady Lindy," so called on account of her likeness to Col. Lindbergh. Wilmer Stultz was co-pilot and Lou Gordon, mechanic on the flight.

HOOVER ENTERS ON WEEK EXPECTED BE BUSY POLITICALLY

BEFORE SATURDAY NIGHT DECISIONS WILL BE MADE ON NUMEROUS POINTS

WASHINGTON, June 18. —(AP)—Presidential campaign activities were discussed today by Secretary Hoover, republican nominee, as delegates returning from the Kansas City national convention conferred with him.

Heading the Hoover engagement list were W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad and republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, house leader. Both of them were prominent among the delegates to the convention which awarded Hoover the presidential nomination. A half dozen other returning delegates saw the secretary briefly, but James W. Good, his campaign manager, had not reached Washington.

All of the conferences—the first of a long series which the nominee expects to hold this week—dealt with campaign outlooks. There are some differences of opinion on the minor issues, but the closest aides of the secretary are fairly well in agreement in favoring his early departure for Palo Alto.

Secretary Hoover's usual summer schedule calls for a vacation there and it is pointed out that with the growing importance of a radio mechanism, his official campaign opening, the speech of response to a convention committee which notifies him of his selection, can be staged most effectively in California.

WASHINGTON, June 18. —(AP)—Refreshed by the rest of the sabbath, Herbert Hoover today entered upon a week anticipated as replete with political activity. By Saturday night it is expected he will reach decisions on numerous points of importance in connection with his campaign as republican nominee for the presidency.

But these decisions are not to be made entirely on Mr. Hoover's own initiative. Following his avowed intention of seeking advice of his political friends, he plans to cover with numerous leaders of his party as they straggle into Washington from the Kansas City convention.

In addition, Mr. Hoover on Thursday will meet a group of 24 representatives of the republican national committee, who will expect him to indicate his choice for chairmanship of the committee. Mr. Hoover, too, is to lay before the committeemen his campaign plans as evolved by that time.

In addition to this point, Mr. Hoover today faced the necessity of early decisions as to when he will resign from his position in the cabinet, a visit to President Coolidge at the summer white house in Wisconsin, the receipt of official notification of his nomination and various details of his campaign organization.

The belief was spread here, that he may submit his resignation to President Coolidge in person and go from Wisconsin to his home in California, there to receive the committee from the convention which will notify him officially of his nomination.

EIGHT PERSONS MEET TRAGIC END IN ACCIDENTS

FIVE KILLED WHEN CAR CRASHED INTO TROLLEY; AIRPLANE TAKES TWO

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., June 18.—(AP)—Five persons, three young men from Erie, Pa., and two young women of this city were instantly killed here early Sunday, when their automobile collided head-on with a trolley car.

The dead:

RALPH T. BAPTIST, 27, steel worker, driver of the car.

GERTRUDE M. R. Johnson, 23.

ELLA BENSON, 25, cook at the Y. W. C. A. hospital.

J. C. LEWIS, 22.

ALBERT BYRNES, 22, machine operator.

The trolley car, was being taken to a nearby car house and according to witnesses, was traveling about five miles an hour. The automobile, which was said to be travelling at a high rate of speed, was driven across a viaduct in the opposition direction from that in which the trolley was going.

The five bodies were hurled high into the air and the automobile a light coupe, with a rumble seat, was demolished.

Comedy Star Killed.

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Miss Rosalie Claire, 23, one of the principals in "Sunny Days," a musical comedy playing here, died in a hospital here Sunday following an automobile accident. Four other persons, actors and actresses, of the same company, were injured when their automobile crashed into a lamp post, while turning a corner.

William Tasek, 23, is suffering from a skull fracture which physicians said may prove fatal. Miss Audrey Maple, 23, and Bert Carnegie, 35, were badly bruised, but left the hospital after their injuries were dressed.

A negro driver and owner of the wrecked car suffered a broken jaw.

Two Burned to Death.

NASHUA, N. H., June 18.—(AP)—Marcel Theriault, of Nashua, former state senator, and Miss Katherine Thomas, 22, of Nashua, were burned to death when an airplane in which they were passengers caught fire and crashed to the ground Sunday. George Lennox of Wichita, Kansas, the pilot, was badly burned and is in a critical condition in the Nasua hospital.

Confesses Murder Of American Mine Head in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—(AP)—Dispatches from Pachuca today said police there had obtained a confession from Alberto Islas that he murdered Howard C. Smith of Denver, superintendent of Santa Gertrudis mine, on May 30.

Islas said he had been discovered stealing ore and decided to kill Smith, believing he would thereby escape punishment. Borrowing a rifle he posted himself along the highway and fired upon the American as he drove by. Smith was wounded in the hand. He left the automobile to capture his assailant but was hit with two more bullets and killed.

FRIENDSHIP MADE FLIGHT WITH FIRST WOMAN PASSENGER

BIG MONOPLANE CROSSES CROSSES ATLANTIC IN 20 HOURS AND 49 MINUTES

LONDON, June 18. (AP)—The trans-Atlantic monoplane Friendship, carrying the first woman ever to span the Atlantic by air, landed at Burry Port, Wales, at 12:40 p. m., today, just 20 hours and 49 minutes after taking off from Trepassey, new Foundland.

The plane, which had been sighted 75 miles west of Ireland by the steamship America, landed in Burry inlet because of a shortage of fuel, Wilmer Stultz, the pilot, bringing his ship down without difficulty close to shore.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston social worker and co-pilot of the plane, came ashore with her companions in a motor boat which set out immediately from the coast guard station.

The crew of the Friendship, which included Louis Gordon, mechanic, was in the best of spirits and looked none the worse for their 21 hour flight across the almost 2,000 mile stretch between Newfoundland and Great Britain.

Crowds Rush to Scene.

Although the plane settled down off a swampy region some distance from the little town of Burry Port, which had never dreamed of its arrival, it was not long before hundreds of spectators were on the scene.

LEADERS MOVING TOWARD HOUSTON FOR DEMO MEET

HOUSTON, June 18.—(AP)—Leaders of the democratic party were moving toward Houston today, where, a week hence, they will be called upon to settle numerous issues and select candidates at the national convention.

Among other things, Clem Shaver, chairman of the democratic executive committee, who has been in Houston for a week approving arrangements for the convention, expected an invasion of farmers who were denied admittance to the republican convention at Kansas City.

The farmers, with their plea for farm relief in some form, will be given a hearing here, Mr. Shaver said today.

"We cannot promise that their every demand will be met, but we will give them an opportunity to present their case," Mr. Shaver said.

The first formal event of the convention will be a meeting of the executive committee next Monday to settle any possible contests over delegates. So far not a single contest has been filed officially, and only one has been rumored, Mr. Shaver said.

Among arrivals today were a number of newspaper representatives.

FIFTY-ONE STILL MISSING AS RESULT GUNBOAT EXPLOSION

BOGOTA, Columbia, June 18. —(AP)—Reports from Barranquilla say 51 persons are missing and believed to have perished in the explosion that destroyed the Colombian army gunboat Hercules Saturday on the Magdalena river near the port of Citio Nuevo.

Most of the victims were drowned and their bodies devoured by alligators, say reports.

The Hercules had 73 persons aboard at the time of the accident which happened at about midnight, while most of them were asleep. The 22 survivors were blown into the river and either swam ashore or clung to floating timbers until rescued by inhabitants of nearby settlements, who, awakened by the blast, put out in canoes and skiffs to save them.

HEALTH SAFEGUARDS.

Omitting all activity of so beautiful had all the colors produced by his administration gone into the painting.

Fabled Utopia would have been outdone by this most real of nations had the Coolidge administration practiced what President Coolidge preached to the federal workers. Mr. Coolidge says government economy and tax reduction promote prosperity. Recognition of that fact inspired the long but partly successful fight waged by Democratic members in congress for tax reduction almost double that finally authorized by congress. When the chief executive takes credit unto himself for recent tax reductions and resultant prosperity he forgets that tax cuts recommended by him have always been less than the cuts Democratic senators and representatives nave insisted the taxpayers were entitled to. The president has not "so managed the national finances as to secure the greatest benefit to the people."

SUMMER'S DISEASES.

Every change of season brings a new set of problems for those who take an active interest in building up and maintaining their health, we are in formed by the United States Public Health Service.

Public health officers and workers who have studied the subject have found a tendency to identify themselves with certain seasons.

Among those which cause the most concern during the spring and summer are the intestinal upsets ascribed to improper food and milk. They can be avoided, the investigators believe, if adequate care is taken with the diet and in the safeguarding of milk and food supplies.

Infantile paralysis, one of the most mysterious and dreaded of diseases, also becomes more prevalent during the hot weather, and parents are advised not to allow their children to visit or play with other children who are ill.

Typhoid is another of the important diseases which tend to increase during the summer and fall. Although it becomes quite widespread, public health officials are convinced that it can be prevented by strict attention to the maintenance of cleanliness in food, milk and water supplies and protection against flies. Vaccination also is recommended.

Among the common communicable diseases measles is most likely to give trouble during the warm months.

Even more definitely identified with the conditions and recreations associated with the spring and summer are the seasonal increase in lockjaw, automobile accidents, ivy poisoning, drowning and rabies. Ivy poisoning, health authorities warn, can be not merely a painful and disabling condition, but an even more serious matter if allowed to get out of control.

SLOWING DOWN.

Many of the country's problems which seem so new and confusing may be attributed to the fact that the United States is at a turning point in its national life. An untouched continent no longer clamors for large families and unrestricted immigration. The birth rate is falling, the bars have been put up at Ellis Island and the city with its bright lights and artificiality has come to exert a predominating influence.

When this country declared its independence, it had a population of about 5,000,000. Now its population is 115,000,000. Should it continue to grow in the same ratio, it would have a population of more than 4,000,000,000 in 150 years. But its growth has already slowed down and experts have said then when the population reaches the 200,000,000 mark it will remain stationary.

Nature is asserting herself. Nations, like individuals, have a limit to their stature. There comes a time in the life of both when they stop growing.

This country can not go on expanding as it has in the past, can not give birth to so many great cities, cannot sustain such vast movements as swept into the prairie seventy-five years ago, or on to the Pacific coast a generation later.

The time is near at hand when the American people must be content with a more static condition, and settle down to a policy of replacement and conservation not only with regard to material resources, but with regard to direction of national energies.

Today the United tates is a mature nation in everything but growth in population.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LANE.

Mrs. Bonnie Odessa Lane, wife of A. J. Lane, past away at the Navarro Clinic Monday morning, June 11th, 1928, at 6 o'clock. She was sick only a short time, but her suffering was great. All was done that physicans and loving hands could do.

She was born June 17th, 1908. She was a member of the Baptist church and was loved by all who knew her. She will be greatly missed in this community.

She leaves a husband, father, mother and one sister, and one brother and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. She was laid to rest in the Board Tree cemetery Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. A large procession followed the remains there and beautiful flowers were laid on the new made grave.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord
When love has bound the heart,
'Tis hard so hard to speak the words,
Must we forever part.

This lovely bud, so young and fair,
Called hence by early doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower,
In Paradise would bloom.

We saw not the angels who met her there,
The gates of the city we could not see,
But over on the other shore,
Thy darling stands waiting for thee.

But God had a place in heaven
That He wanted to complete
So he called your darling Odessa,
To fill the vacant seat.

Her troubles all are ended here
Her sufferings all are over,
But in that bright and happy home,
We will meet to part no more.

Sleep on dear love one,
And take thy rest,
God called you home,
He thought it was best.

Ruby Perteet.

Hints for the Farm

Furnished by the DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Geese should not be picked during the breeding season and in no event after November 15 if they are to be in full feather for marketing. In plucking, a stocking usually is put over the head of the goose and the soft feathers on the breast, back, sides and abdomen are pulled. Five quill feathers may be pulled from each wing, but short feathers enough to support the wings always should be left.

On farms where livestock is an important enterprise, the quality of the stock is very important. On most farms, except in the south and certain western states, more of the crops are fed to livestock than are sold direct. The animals are the market for the crops, hence their production is a most important factor in farm profits. The best of feed will count for little when fed to animals that make returns below the market prices of these crops, and good livestock may not be profitable if not fed and cared for economically.

In sections where extra heavy yields are obtained, or where the season is uncommonly wet, there are occasions when it will be profitable to use a hay tedder to accelerate curing. Most side delivery rakes are so constructed that they may be used for tedding hay as well as for raking.

For the production of broilers many commercial poultrymen in New Jersey and other states are using a cross between a White Leghorn and a White Wyandotte or Barred Plymouth Rock. Some producers of broilers use only purebred Barred Plymouth Rocks, while in New Hampshire the Rhode Island Reds are used almost exclusively for this purpose.

Practical control of the sugar-beet nematode is now effected in some of the worst infested areas by practicing crop rotation. In some of the newly infested districts the spread of the pest is being checked by the elimination of infested fields from beet culture and rotation of crops on fields as yet free from infestation.

Spring-wheat farmers are taking a greater interest in cleaning their grain before selling. Excessive quantities of weed seeds cause the grain to be assigned to lower grades. Great losses from dockage can be prevented by cleaning the grain at the thresher, in farm granaries and in country elevators.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. Bonnie Odessa Lane, who died in the Navarro Clinic June 11, 1928, at 6 o'clock a. m.

She was the wife of Albert Lane, to whom she had been married almost four years. She was 19 years, 11 months and 23 days old. She was sick but a short while. All was done that loving hands could do, but God needed her to fill a vacant place.

She was loved by all who knew her. She was so kind and cheerful. How we will miss her pleasant face and suny smiles.

She belonged to the Baptist church and lived a faithful life until death claimed her. She leaves a husband, mother, father, one sister, one brother and a host of other relatives to mourn her death.

She was laid to rest in the Boardtree cemetery June 12, Bro. Bob Evans and Bro. W. C. Lowry officiating.

We know that you will miss her and it broke your hearts when she died; sad and lonely is your home, for wife and daughter is not there.

You will miss her more than words can express, but now she is an angel in that happy home of rest.

Weep not for her who was suffering so much pain, but now is at rest, not for a day or year, but through all the ceaseless ages of eternity.

She is waiting on you from the skies above, waiting dear husband, mother, father, sister and brother, to gather you into the fold.

Let's not wish for her back, but live such a life as to meet our darling Dessie in the sweet beyond.

She will be waiting to welcome us as one by one we are gathered home. There is no rorrow or parting in that land, all is happiness and rejoicing around the great White Throne.

We wish to thank those who will so kind during her illness and death. May God bless each and every one in the dork hours of trial.

There was a place in heaven
God wanted to complete,
So he took our darling Dessie
To fill the vacant seat.

She has gone, our dearest loved one
To that blissful spirit land,
Gone to dwell with Christ forever,
And his holy angel band.

And we long to cross that river,
Long to rest upon that shore,
There to see and know and love her
With the Savior evermore.

Through all the pain at times she smiled,
A smile of heavenly birth,
And when the angel called her home
She smiled farewell to earth.

Dearest Dessie, we must lay thee,
In the peaceful grave's embrace
But thy memory will be cherisher
Till we see thy heavenly face.

Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled,
And in heaven, with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed

We shal meet her, but we shall miss her,
There will be one vacant chair,
We shall linger to caress her,
As we breathe our evening prayer
—Written by Her Cousin.

CLEAVER EMERGES FROM THIRD FIGHT WITH POLICE ALIVE

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Charles (Limpy) Cleaver, charged with mail robbery, has emerged from his third gun battle in eight years with Chicago police seriously wounded but still alive.

The alleged leader of the recent $133,000 Evergreen Park train robbery, with four others, overpowered the jailer and escaped from the Dupage county jail at Wheaton. Joseph Farina, a companion in the jail break was wounded and captured with Cueaver late yesterday, but the other three members of the gang remain at large.

Police were told after Cleaver and his companions escaped to "shoot to kill on sight," as the fugitives had armed themselves before leaving the jail.

The conclusion of the manhunt furnished all the action of a motion picture thriller. The scene was a 40-acre tract that resembled a war-torn battlefield after the 50 minutes of fighting brought the pair under submission. At one side of the field stood the spectators, estimated at 600 persons, many of whom climbed to the tops of their automobiles to obtain a better view of the hostilities. None was injured.

The casualties included Lieut. Andrew Barry of the detective bureau, who was wounded three times, not seriously; Cleaver and Farina each shot 11 times. Farina had one bullet near his heart and probably will die. Cleaver may recover. At a hospital both said: "I want to die."

Police estimated 400 shots were fired in the fight between 100 police and the fugitives, who were hiding in a dugout in the center of a swampy field. Cleaver and Farina were armed with two sub-machine guns, two shotguns and pistols and were captured only after their supply of ammunition became exhausted. Police were obliged to fight from the open, firing from a distance of about 60 yards into the stronghold of the desperadoes hidden behind a thick clump of brush.

When the pair finally surrendered Farina dropped unconscious.

Cleaver, almost exhausted, was far from subdued, however. "If I'd had any ammunition for my machine gun," he taunted, "I'd have cleaned up all you flatheels."

STATE VETERINARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION BE HELD TEXAS A&M

COLLEGE STATION, June 16.—(Spl.)— The eighteenth annual meeting of the State Veterinary Medical association of Texas and the sixth short course for graduate veterinarians will be held at the A. and M. Rosenburg, assistant veterinarian, State Live Stock Sanitary commission, will have charge of the clinic and discussion on siseases of sheep and goats.

Dr. J. F. DeVine, Goshen, N. Y., well known specialist, will lecture, demonstrate and lead discussions on the diseases of cattle. Diseases of dogs which are so essential to various agricultural pursuits will be considered in aseries of symposiums and clinics with Dr. A. A. Lenert, associate professor of veterinary medicine and surgery, A. and M. in charge. Dr. R. C. Dunn, professor of veterinary medicine and surgery, A. and M. will discuss the diseases of poultry.

FORMER HUSBAND SLAIN AND BURNED WOMAN ARRESTED

STAR, Okla., June 16.—(AP)— The apparent slaughter of a family of three and subsequent burning of their bodies in their home was being investigated here today in a court of inquiry conducted by Ben Bellew, county attorney of Haskell county.

The charred bodies of Dan Stella, his wife and their infant daughter, were found in the ruins of their home last week. Henry McIntosh, former husband of Mrs. Stella, was arrested last night.

A postmortem examination of the bodies yesterday revealed that Stella and his wife had been shot. A jug containing kerosene was found near their house.

Officers said they learned that McIntosh and Mrs. Stella had been quarreling over the appointment of a guardian for their 13 year old son, Lee. A witness whose name Bellew would not divulge said he saw McIntosh walking in the vicinity of the Stella home the night it was destroyed by fire.

FIRST BALE COTTON ALLEGED VOLUNTEER COTTON BY GINNER

SAN BENITO, June 16.—(AP)— The purported first bale of 1928, now in Houston, is what is known as "volunteer" cotton picked from last year's stubble, and not 1928 grown cotton, according to officials of the Valley Gin company, which concern ginned the cotton.

Another such bale of "volunteer" cotton has been ginned here, the gin officials said, for T. J. Irwin. This cotton also was picked up from stubble and sold for $101.40.

The bale now in Houston was raised by W. D. Curtis of San Juan and ginned at a Valley Gin company plant at San Juan.

THOS. L. BLANTON FAILED TO DELIVER CORSICANA SPEECH

MISUNDERSTANDING AS TO ARRANGEMENTS CAUSES CANCELLATION HERE

Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, Taylor county, candidate for the United States Senate, was in Corsicana Thursday afternoon in the interest of his candidacy, but due to a misunderstanding as to arrangements for his scheduled address, he did not speak. He had spoken 104 times since opening his campaign and the cancellation of his address in Corsicana was the first speech he had failed to make. He is making a whirlwind campaign of Texas, speaking as many as four times in one day.

In an interview with a Sun reporter, he declared that high office should not be used for pleasure-getting, money-making, globe-junketing, or personal aggrandizement, but solely as a means of rendering maximum service that best benefits alike all of the people. He rapped the senators who he termed social butterflies, lazy, indifferent, ease-loving, and yoke-bound, but should be sober, law-abiding honest, conscientious, sincere, industrious, tireless, painstaking, courageous, unselfish, dependable, in good health, punctually present at all sessions, wholly uncontrolled by special interests, and representing no selfish sects, but faithfully representing all the people. He also is opposed to the voting with the "gang" on every treasury raid, and following the path of least resistance, insuring popularity with colleagues and the press gallery, but making the law-makers absolutely worthless to constituents. He declared that a senator must be willing to fight a man's fight, uncompromisingly, when fight only will protect the public.

Mr. Blanton was in the House for eleven years and he states that he helped to pass every good law, and vigorously and uncompromisingly fought every bad measure. He said that he had by years of close study mastered the rules and precedents of both the House and Senate. They are tools without which one is impotent. He declared that during his vacations, he had found out what all of the departments, bureaus, commissions, etc., did with the millions, and how little they benefit the people. He declared many should be abolished and that he found waste galore, extravagance and much graft. He declared that he had many enemies among his colleagues and the press gallery by his stopping many pet schemes and blocking bad claims.

"A real partnership must be established between the federal government and all of the people," Mr. Blanton continued.

He favors the requiring of all government officers to give all their time to the people; the consolidation of the war and navy into a Department of National Defense, which would save $100,000,000 annually; prohibiting the President from invading foreign countries with our fighting forces to collect debts for Wall Street bankers; suspending all immigration until 1935; requiring registration of all resident aliens, and deporting those who fail to become citizens; granting to producers maximum marketing facilities, low freight rates, ample capital for financing, prohibiting gambling in farm and ranch products, providing maximum commercial utilization of waste farm products, creating embargo against jute, thus requiring cotton wrapping and sacks for sugar, salt and cement to be made of cotton, thereby creating market for 3,000,000 bales of low-grade cotton; transferring annual $500,000,000 tariffs from New England manufacturers and giving same to farmers and ranchmen; perfecting and stopping abuses in Federal Reserve System; and stopping all waste, exaravagance and graft in government.

Continuing, Mr. Blanton stated that if his fellow Texans would send him to the senate, he pladged that he would be at all sessions, that he will know all about every measure that comes up, and will fight all waste, extravagance and graft and will give worthwhile service.

Mr. Blanton left Corsicana late Thursday aftrenoon for Hillsboro where he was scheduled to speak Thursday night.

HIRAM EVANS' SUIT MUST BE TRIED BY COURT IN DALLAS

DALLAS, June 16.—(AP)—Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, was within his legal rights in filing in Dallas county a $150,000 libel suit against the American Publishing company, publishers of the Austin American, the fifth court of civil appeals held here today in reversing and remanding that suit for trial on its merits.

The suit will be tried in the court of Judge Towne Young, who last year sustained the defendant's contention that the suit should have been brought in Travis county.

The suit was filed by Evans following the democratic state convention at Austin in 1924, based on a speech made from the convention floor by General M. M. Crane and subsequently published in the Austin American.

Hoover Is Iowa's First Major Party Presidential Nominee

DES MOINES, June 15.—(AP)—In Herbert Hoover Iowa has its first presidential candidate to have the nomination of a major political candidate.

And in event of Hoover's election Iowa will have given the United States its first president to be born west of the Mississippi river.

Names of three other Iowans have been before the electorate in general elections but as the nominees of minor parties they failed to get a single electoral vote.

First Bale of Texas Cotton is Ginned Thurs.

BROWNSVILLE, June 15.—(AP)—The first bale of cotton of the 1928 crop, grown on the farm of W. C. Curtis, two miles north of here, was ginned yesterday and shipped by express to Houston last night. It will be sold on the floor there today.

The bale weighed 537 pounds and was classed as good middling.

WOULD DECLARE FOR PROHIBITION REFERENDUM IDEA

AUSTIN, June 15.—(AP)—A prohibition referendum should be declared for by the democratic party in national convention at Houston, George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture and "life long prohibitionist," said in a statement here today.

"I am a lifelong prohibitionist and I know that both 'pros' and 'antis' desire to know the will of the voters on the 18 amendment, since it has been in operation several years. This plank would gain more votes for the democratic ticket than all others combined for it offers a fair and just means of ascertaining the people's belief on a question of paramount importance that must be settled right for their welfare."

"We want temperance and the best means of securing and maintaining it. The people have the inalienable right to alter or amend their constitution in a legal way at any time and should not be denied the right to express their views on any governmental question."

"We are now," he added, "at the parting of the ways and the action of the Houston convention may perpetuate democratic principles and civil liberty or it may destroy them. The pendelum already has swung far toward centralization—a course that inevitably leads to the destruction of state's rights, followed by suppression of individual rights."

Other planks which he thinks should be adopted are:

"For strict observance of the constitution in its entirely (not one part of it) and the rigid enforcement of all laws until they are repealed in a legal way.

"For suppression of graft and corruption in high places and for the return of honesty, efficiency and economy in governmental affairs and the preservation of civil, religious and political liberty."

"For the right of the states to manage their own local affairs."

"For the protection of agriculture by equalizing the tariff on farm products with that on the products of industry through the debenture plan, and by permissive (not compulsory) law providing for the organization of national farm marketing associations."

Lightning Strikes Home Near Dawson

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alma Holt, of several miles south of town, was greatly damaged by lightning and wind last Saturday night during the rain. Mr. Holt stated that when the house was struck it seemed more like a big explosion than anything else. The house rose two or three feet, then settled out of position eight or ten feet, in a crushed condition. Fortunately none of the family were injured. The wind also did damage to the barn and other outhouss, alsoc-rippling one of Mr. Holt's mules.—Dawson Herald.

LANDSLIDE MARKS CURTIS NOMINATION FOR VICE PRESIDENT

KANSAS SENATOR NAMED AS RUNNING MATE FOR HOOVER FRIDAY AFTERNOON

By BYRON PRICE
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

CONVENTION HALL, Kansas City, June 15. (AP)—Hoover and Curtis.

So reads the republican ticket. In a landslide of porportions even outdoing that in which Herbert Hoover himself was named last night for president, the republican national convention at its concluding session today selected Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas as his running mate.

East and West and South joined in a tumultuous rivalry to give the tribute and confidence of their support to the swarthy Kansan, of Indian descent, once a jockey, now the leader of his party in the United States senate. His selection was urged by his Middle West partisans and accepted by the delegates of other sections as a link between the presidential nominee and the McNary-Haugen farm bloc which was so overwhelmingly beaten yesterday in attempt to write the equalization fee into the Republican platform.

Voted for Farm Bill.

Senator Curtis voted for the McNary-Haugen bill, which was vetoed by President Coolidge. When the attempt was made three weeks ago to pass the 1928 bill over the veto, however, the Kansas senator stood by the president. He himself had been a candidate for the presidency, with the support of Kansas and Oklahoma to the last. Although his vice-presidential candacy had been handicapped by the record of his stubborn resistance against Hoover, his supporters pointed out that he not only announced his allegiance to the standard bearer and platform as soon as the presidential nomination was made, but sent a ringing telegram of congratulation to Mr. Hoover.

Like Hoover, Curtis was nominated on the first ballot, and there were only a few scattered votes for others. During the final period of convention oratory set aside for nominating and seconding speeches other names were submitted, but before the roll call began, everyone of them had been withdrawn. Senator Borah of Idaho, already a convention favorite by virtue of his speech yesterday against the McNary-Haugen farm plank, made the nominating speech and the last of a long series of seconds was delivered just before the roll call began, by Senator Curtis' own daughter, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight a delegate from Rhode Island.

Came With Rush.

After a night of conferences among the leaders, the movement to nominate the Kansan came on with a rush and a roar. Kansas of course, had been for him all along, but the big boost that really put him over was started by that same Pennsylvania delegation of 79 that figures so decisively in turning the tide for Hoover in the pre-convention nose-counting early this week.

In a morning caucus, with a dozen candidates still in the field, the Pennsylvanians went over to curtis in a body. They were followed quickly by the biggest state delegation of all, that of New York then in turn by Illinois, and many others. Although convention officials felt it necessary to go through the formalities of a roll call, it was virtually a nomination by acclimation.

The final vote was: Curtis 1,052; Herman L. Ekern of Wisconsin, 19; Vice President Dawes, 13; Hanford McNider of Iowa, 2.

FUNERAL SERVICES WERE HELD THURSDAY FOR MRS. JOHNSON

Funeral services for Mrs. Susie B. Johnson, aged 64 years, who died Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock following a lingering illness, were held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from 1607 West Second avenue with interment in Oakwood cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. J. I. Patterson, assistant pastor of the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Johnson was born in Winchester, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1863. She joined the Methodist church when she was 14 years old and at the time of her death was a member of the First Methodist church here. She was married to G. W. Stamper and after his death, married G. D. Johnson, who died several years ago.

Surviving are the following children: Mrs. R. P. McEntire, Corsicana; W. D. Johnson, Corsicana; Mrs. Frank Coots, Mexia; Mrs. Bryant Austin, Powell; Mrs. Walter Denton, Trinidad; A. C. Johnson, Marshall; Mrs. Bob Fite, Grand Prairie; two brothers, Ellis and Will Alford, and two sisters, Mrs. Sallie Stamper and Mrs. Bettie Stamper, all of Tennessee.

Pallbearers were C. E. Love, Donald Simth, D. M. Parham, Jim Taylor, Cecil Foster and S. W. Burdine.

HOUSTON PEDDLER CHARGED IN LAING MURDER AT LUFKIN

LUFKIN, June 15.—(AP)—Charles W. (Speck) Garwood, Houston peddler, today was charged with the murder of John Laing, Houston paperhanger, in a house the Laing family was occuping for the night on the outskirts of Lufkin several weeks ago.

Garwood was identified yesterday by Mrs. Laing as the man who wielded the iron bar that killed her husband and beat her and the two children, John 8, and Robert 2, into unconsciousness, officers said.

Farmers Expect Carry Battle to Democratic Meet

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—(AP)—Defeated in their attempt to write the equalization fee principle into the republican party platform, farm leaders of the middlewest plan to carry their fight to the democratic convention at Houston.

Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, Minn., a delegate to the convention here who made a speech on the floor in behalf of the minority farm plank, attacked the convention farm action here in a statement today and said, his group would go on to the Texas conclave in an effort to obtain relief "denied them by the republicans.

"I am speaking for the farmers," he said, "when I say they must accept the vote on the farm relief plank as notice to them that the republican party is not big enough to take them into the protective system and that their vote is not regarded as necessary to party success."

"BREAD AND MEAT" FUND STATE BOYS' SCHOOL EXHAUSTED

AUSTIN, June 16.—(AP)—The board of control today requested the attorney general's department to look into accounts of the State Boys' Training School at Gatesville after it had learned that the institution already has exhausted, about three months ahead of schedule, its "bread and meat," or support and maintenance fund.

J. B. Hearn, storekeeper and accountant, appeared before the board today and was questioned.

Dr. H. H. Harrington, board member, said Hearn's report showed that the school, besides being out of funds which were intended to last until September 1, is about $14,000 "in the red" on goods received and bills at hand and about $2,000 behind on outstanding accounts.

He mentioned a statement by Gov. Moody today that he (the executive) had been informed the institution's support had erred in erecting buildings out of the fund not intended for that purpose.

FOREIGN PRESS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CONVENTION WORK

PARIS, June 16.—(AP)—Comment upon the republican nomination of Hoover was neither extensive nor especially enthusiastic in the morning papers of today. The lack of enthusiasm, however, was due more to the platform upon which the republicans have placed Hoover than to the man himself.

Hoover's technical abilities, his genius for organization, his energy, his competence in financial and economic affairs and his acquaintance with foreign countries the world over were recognized by the Parisian commentators.

In regard to the platform, it was noted that opposition to the cancellation of war debts continued, armaments were to remain the same, America was still determined to stay out of the league of nations, and the high tariff and prohibition would continue under Hoover as they existed under Presidents Harding and Coolidge.

Sees Capitulation

MOSCOW, June 16.—(AP)—Pravda, official organ of the communist party, commenting on the nomination of Hoover says that its most important aspect was the "failure of the farmer bloc and its final capitulation before the Morgans and Mellons."

The paper says that the result spells the bankruptcy of American party bourgeoisie, leaving in the field but two parties not differing substantially from each other. High officials refrain from commenting.

THIRD CONFESSION IN BOLD ROBBERY IN KANSAS CITY MADE

KANSAS CITY, June 16.—(AP)—A third confession in connection with the robbery of the Home Trust Company Wednesday and the slaying of James H. (Happy) Smith, traffic patrolman, was made today by Tony (Lollypop) Mangiarcino, 27, Lincoln R. Toyne, chief of police, announced today.

The confession, Chief Toyne said, was far more elaborate and more graphic than the confessions last night of John Messino, driver, and Maurice Nagle, owner, of the bandit car. The chief said it would aid much in finding the other members of the bandit gang and in convicting them when they are brought to justice.

Mangiarcino has been arrested many times in connection with bandit activities, but always managed to be freed, largely because of his refusal to talk, and the confession was a surprise to police.

In his confession, Toyne said, Mangiarcino told of driving around the streets with his companions looking over convention crowds before going to the bank; of the robbery in the bank and the flight to a cabin in Eastwood Hills, southeast of the city, where the loot of more than $19,000 was divided.

Police withheld the part of the confession concerning the shooting in which Smith was fatally wounded and four other persons, including another policeman, injured.

NEBRASKA SENATOR DISPLEASED RESULT REPUBLICAN MEET

CONVENTION LEADERS ALL GIVEN RAKING OVER BY PROGRESSIVE

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Dissatisfied with the republican platform and with the party nominee, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, in a statement today declared that the action of the republican convention at Kansas City "will be a sad disappointment to every progressive citizen in the United States."

A "direct slap" had been given the farmers at Kansas City, he said, at the same time deploring silence on the activities of the power interests, disregard of the disclosures made by the investigation of naval oil leases, and silence as to Boulder dam, Muscle Shoals, and the "lame duck" constitutional amendment.

Beginning with Senator Fess, Ohio, Senator Norris made attacks on Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the platform committee, William S. Vare, Bascom Slemp and Irvine L. Lenroot, former senator from Wisconsin.

"Senator Fess, the keynoter of the convention, defended Daugherty on the floor of the senate," he said, and opposed the investigation.

Woman Given Criticism.

"Mabel Walker Willebrandt, chairman of the important committee on credentials—the committee that was careful to seat all the Hoover delegates from the solid South, while she was assistant attorney general of the United States, went to New York to testify in behalf of Daugherty.

"Senator Smoot, who was chairman of the platform committee and was one of Hoover's lieutenants, was disclosed in the oil investigation to have gone secretly to Fall's apartment to advise with him about his defense.

"When the psychological moment came, it was no other person than Boss Vare, the leader of the Philadelphia political machine—the man who, on account of the disgraceful proceedings in the Pennsylvania primary, was excluded from the United States senate—it was this same Vare who compelled the Pennsylvania delegation to go solid for Hoover.

Slemp Excoriated.

"Then there was Bascom Slemp, famous for his handling of presidential appointments in the solid South and one of the principal cogs in the Southern political machine, using his influence, his power and his knowledge to secure Hoover delegates through the instrumentality of the disgraceful, office-holding, political combinations in the Southern states.

"Ex-Senator Lenroot was selected to go to Kansas City and represent him (Hoover) in in the contests that came before the convention. He was part of the big Hoover steam roller, and when he went there and while he was engaged in putting the Hoover delegates across, his pockets were lined with a $20,000 fee that he had received from the water power trust to lobby before a senate committee."

"The rank and file of the great republican party will be disgusted and humiliated," he said, "but the power trust, as well as the Hoovers, Daughertys, the Sinclairs, the Doheneys, the Falls, the Smoots, the Hayeses, the Lenroots, the Fesses, the Moses and the machine politicians everywhere, will be happy and delighted.

"If this program is endorsed at the polls, it will be the duty of the senate when it reconvenes in December, to apologize to Power Trust Insull and his man from Illinois, for whose election he contributed more than $100,000; to seat boss, Vare the representative of the Philadelhpia machine; to reinstate Daugherty; to apologize to Sinclair and Doheny and to pass a law returning them the property which the supreme court of the United States said they had fraudulently obtained; to give a certificate of character to ex-Secretary Fall; to ask for the pardon of Miller, who has been sentenced to the penitentiary; to destroy the incriminating evidence which investigation brought forth on the fraudulent profits of O'Neal and Stewart; to invite Blackmer to return from his hiding place in Europe and to receive him in good society with open arms; to condemn the supreme court of the United States for declaring the Fall-Doheny deals were disgraceful and fraudulent; to call upon the Federal Trade Commission to cease its investigation wherein it is disclosing the sinister attacks upon our government, by the power trust; and to ask forgiveness for all its activities in disclosing fraud and dishonesty in high official places."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS CIRCLES ALSO LOOK FOR FURTHER CO-OPERATION

GENEVA, June 15.—(AP)—Nomination of Herbert Hoover is viewed with great interest by League of Nations circles where the opinion is expressed that if elected, American policy will become more active and more definite. This is qualified, however, with statements that as far as the League is concerned, developments of American co-operation with the League which began under President Harding and was accentuated under President Coolidge, is looked for no matter who becomes president.

LONDON, June 15.—(AP)—The Evening News, commenting editorially on the nomination by the Republicans of Herbert C. Hoover, describes him as "safe, sane and conservative."

News of the nomination came too late for the morning newspapers, but was published prominently this afternoon. Thus far the Evening News has been the only paper to comment editorially.

PARIS, June 15.—(AP)—Nomination of Herbert Hoover was given much favorable comment in the afternoon papers today. It was breakfast time when news of the nomination was flashed to Paris and the morning papers therefore had no comment.

For weeks there have been columns in the papers about the man whom France knows so well through his food relief and other war work.

ROME, June 15.—(AP)—Herbert C. Hoover's nomination produced a generally favorable impression in Rome in the sense that if he is elected it presaged a continuation of the policies so far pursued by the United States.

The nomination was especially interesting to the Vatican where it was recalled that Mr. Hoover when chairman for the committee for the relief of Belgium appealed directly to the Pope. It was also recalled that as chairman of the greater relief work after the armistice he sent an envoy expressly to Rome with an address to the late Pope Benedict XV who became the first subscriber to the fund for the children of the Near East.

HERBERT HOOVER HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN NATIONAL WORK

LOOMED STRONG AS PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITY WHEN COOLIDGE REFUSED

Herbert Clark Hoover, secretary of commerce in the cabinets of Presidents Harding and Coolidge, loomed as a strong possibility for the republican presidential nomination shortly after President Coolidge in August, 1927, issued his "I do not choose" statement.

At that time the commerce secretary was enjoying a renewed prominence throughout the country because of his administration of relief measures in the flooded areas of the Mississippi Valley, where his activities served to recall his relief work during the World war.

From the start the Hoover strength throughout the country appeared to be greater than that of other candidates for the nomination. Some of his political opponents in his own party raised issues to question his qualification or eligibility for the nomination, but few of these issues persisted for long.

Chinese Case Cited.

There was brought up Mr. Hoover's connection with a case decided in the British courts in 1905 in which was involved a Chinese mining property. It was averred that Hoover, who was general manager of the enterprise, had made a fortune out of it and that there was some question of his integrity in conection with the manner in which he had accumulated it. These charges were answered by Representative Free of California, who read into the House record documents and letters which exonerated Mr. Hoover from any improper action, praised him for his part in the litigation and quoted his testimony to show that he helped to restore the property to its rightful owners.

Among those who came to the defense of Mr. Hoover at the time was Tong Shaoyi, a former premier of the Peikng government, who had been interested in the mining property. He said:

"Hoover took away from China far less than he had honestly earned, while he left in China the high respect and esteem of all who knew him."

The Chinese statesman also praised Mr. Hoover for his activities during the Boxer uprising, which he said resulted in the saving of many lives, including that of Mr. Tong's daughter, now Mrs. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese diplomat.

A religious issue was suggested when it was recalled that he and Mrs. Hoover had been married by a Catholic priest. A question of his eligibility for the office of president was raised, based on the provision of the constitution requiring 14 years' residence within the United States.

Makes Rubber Fight.

Late in 1925 the commerce secretary began a campaign against the high price of crude rubber, which he repeatedly charged was due to the extortionate policy of the East Indian combine. This combine, it was further charged, had obtained the support of the British government in quoting a figure of one dollar a pound for its output.

The campaign was the subject of much discussion and comment on both sides of the Atlantic. By the middle of February, 1926, crude rubber prices were quoted around 65 cents, or 45 cents below the level reached during the speculative operations. In some quarters it was contended that the drop was an indication that Hoover virtually had won his fight against the British monopoly.

Meanwhile the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce conducted an investigation of the control of crude rubber. In a report made in March, 1926, it sustained Hoover's charges respecting British manipulation of rubber and declared that in three months Americans had paid $100,000,000 over fair prices.

Brings Americans Home.

Herbert Clark Hoover's name first commanded general attention in the tense days of August, 1914. The swift German onrush across Belgium into France brought home the fatal significance of war to legions of Americans, pleasure seekers, tourists, and students, who annually scatter across the European continent. In the first clash while the armies of the nations of the Old World mobilized for "Der Tag," these hapless visitants found money almost worthless and bank credit entirely so. In darkened cities out of which trains no longer ran, or countrysides denuded of shelter and subsistence, where the stranger and the alien could look neither for tolerance, nor assistance in escaping.

The news of their predicament had barely began to trickle when newspaper readers generally learned also that a hastily formed American relief committee in London, headed by a man named Hoover, had assumed the responsibility of getting them away. The task, it appeared, had been performed with unexpected swiftness, and success, and for Mr. Hoover there ensued a decade of high pressure performance, of ever widening responsibility, that at the height of war made him chief of the effort of the Allied countries and the United States to subsist their populations and their armies. Cessation of war did not end his activities, and he remained one of the foremost figures in American political life, undertaking major duties in connection with the food provisions for the exhausted peoples of half the area of Eurasia, and eventually serving with recognized distinction in the cabinet.

Gifted Personality.

Hardly anything but the social upheaval of the war could have brought to the front rank of American political life a personality at once so curiously gifted and so curiously constrained. Though an almost intuitive grasp of group psychology was one basis of Mr. Hoover's success, first in organizing industry and later in meeting the huge emergencies of famine and pestilence, his contacts with strangers always exhibited him as an impassive, indrawn, individual, incapable of demonstrativeness and devoid of impressiveness.

The war was the occasion of the introduction of Mr. Hoover to the general public, but his career and accomplishment had been much beyond ordinary long before. Born in West Branch, Iowa, Aug. 19, 1874, the son of a blacksmith and a Quaker mother, he had been orphaned by death of both parents before he was seven years old. Relatives with whom he then made his home moved to Oregon, and at 13 years he was faced with the task of earning his own living as a boy worker in truck gardens, and later in city offices.

Bent upon obtaining an education, Mr. Hoover worked his way into and through the then newly founded Stanford University in California, emerging in 1895 with a degree in mining engineering and geology. In the successeding 20 years, first as mine laborer, then as mine manager and operator, in all the deserted places of the world where mineral wealth is found, he made for himself a unique reputation and a large fortune. To admitted technical proficiency as an engineer—his books and mongraphms are standard textbooks in colleges today—Mr. Hoover combined proven ability in organizing and financing, and became identified with a group of offices in London and New York who engaged in mining and metallurgical enterprises in most of the quarters of the world.

Chinese Activities.

From West Australia he had gone to China, and was engaged in the development of coal and iron deposits when the Boxer rebellion cooped him up with other foreigners in Peking, where he underwent the seige of 1900. Before the Allied troops relieved the legation prisoners, he had organized his first food relief, for Chinese and other refugees. He built a port there later, for the owners of the mining properties, and thereafter in Burma, Russia, Alaska and Mexico, initiated or directed enterprises which were for the most part successful. In 1913, it was estimated that 175,000 men were employed by the corporations for which he was acting as executive engineer. He maintained his connections with scholastic and research activities as well, and found time during the period to translate, with the collaboration of his wife, "De Res Metallica," a Latin work which is the earliest known treatise on mining. He had married in 1899 Miss Lou Henry, a Stanford school mate, and had two sons, Allan and Herbert.

From the work of the American relief committee that extricated the American tourists of 1914, Mr. Hoover was drafted immediately to a far greater task—the effort to feed and supply the Belgian population. He helped organize the Commission for Relief in Belgium, and took its leadership. It was not suspected at the time how far that task would develop; when the work wound up at the end of the war there had been expended, mostly under Mr. Hoover's direction $1,500,000,000 advanced by loans from allied governments or given by charity. It was operating a fleet of 200 steamships and the peoples of Northern France and Belgium had existed during four and a half years only by its functioning.

When the United States went into the war, President Wilson promptly appointed Mr. Hoover food administrator for the United States, though the latter remained in charge of the Belgian commission. In taking the post, which war time experience in other countries had proved one of the most difficult to hold, Mr. Hoover told friends he "expected to die on the first barbed wire entanglements." His success, however, soon was conceded universally. On the war boards which supervised the nation's task of munitioning the vast army and navy created for the struggle, he became a dominant figure, and at the moment of the armistice, his organizations functioned to supply and feed the exhausted city populations of even the defeated Central powers.

While the peace conference was going on, the American Relief Administration, which Mr. Hoover headed, was feeding children in 23 different nations, and adults in half as many. It coped with typhus epidemics, and in many places almost took over government temporarily. Governmental credits, charitable donations, and utilization of surplus war supplies were all involved. As late as 1921, there was still some localized organization for feeding of children, and Mr. Hoover then a cabinet member was able swiftly to expand this remnant of the relief machinery when famine in Soviet Russia led to congressional appropriations to help a starving population there. This last of the enterprises which he operated for supply food to famished people on a large scale did not wind up until 1923.

Relief Work Excellent.

No part of the war activity had attracted more attention than the Hoover relief enterprises, in the United States and abroad, and when in 1920 the season for presidential politics opened, his name was early bruited about for the foremost political honor the nation can give. There was an embarrassing interlude, however, when it appeared that his long life in the engineering field and his later war work had deprived him of any partisan political status whatever. Workers in his behalf had difficulty in settling upon a political party in which to join to forward his interests, and for a time he was proposed as both a republican and a democratic presidential nominee. The New York World, for years a stalwart democratic organ, warmly espoused his candidacy and there were echoes of support in other democratic papers in various sections. Soon afterward, he issued an open letter declaring himself a republican. But his cause did not flourish, because it had behind it none of the party bosses. When his name was placed before the Chicago convention there was spontaneous and prolonged applause in the galleries, but scarely a ripple among the delegates. He got only a handful of votes.

When President elect Harding, some months later, offered him the post of Secretary of Commerce, he accepted after stipulating that he was to have a free hand in reorganization of his department. He succeeded to the same place under President Coolidge. During later cabinet changes he was successively tendered the departments of interior and agriculture, refusing in each case on the groun thdat his greatest usefulness would be in the post he retained.

Served Other Departments.

In addition to operating his own department, Mr. Hoover served on the American debt commisison and advised the White House on many important questions of policy. Constantly active in enlarging the field of work of his own department, he re-organized its foreign trade sections, summoned conferences to deal with unemployment and with transportation crises, represented the government in major industrial disputes, and appeared as the president's representative in the initiation of national engineering enterprises, such as the St. Lawrence canal and the Colorado basin compact.

Organization of campaigns to reduce waste in industrial operations, to prevent accidents in traffic, and to conserve fisheries were among minor activities he undertook. The commerce department, under his leadership, took an interest in a far wider area of government and industry than ever before.

Mrs. Hoover ably seconded her husband's temperament in organizing a simple mode of living. He had much wealth, though there was never advertisement of it. He occupied an expensive but modestly furnished Washington house, in the same block with the residence of the late President Wilson. Another house, always considered the family home, was built for him on the campus of Stanford University at Palo Alto, an institution in the service of which he spent time and money unflaggingly.

RICHLAND WOMAN BURIED IN OAKWOOD CEMETERY THURS.

Funeral services for Mrs. W. S. Harlan, who died in a Temple hospital Wednesday following an operation, were held from the family residence just north of Richland, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Morrison, Methodist minister. The remains were brought to Corsicana where interment was made in Oakwood cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, two sons, W. G. and R. E. Harlan, three daughters, Elizabeth, Sammie and Mary Harlan, all of Richland; father, D. A. Goza, four brothers, L. L. Goza, E. W. Goza, S. D. Goza and R. E. Goza, all of Houston, Miss.; two sisters, Miss Fairy Goza, Houston, Miss.; Mrs. J. W. Lewis, Ennis.

The course is very thorough and strenuous, Col. Davis stated, and must be completed by all who expect to attain higher rank in military circles.

AMERICA LAND OF PROMISE FOR ALL HOOVER STRESSES

MESSAGE OF APPRECIATION SENT TO REPUBLICAN CONTION BY NOMINEE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Secretary Hoover today sent the following message to George H. Moses, chairman of the republican national convention at Kansas Ctiy:

"I have your telegram and I sincerely appreciate the confidence which the party has shown in me and the honor bestowed upon me.

"You convey too great a compliment when you say I have earned the right to the presidential nomination. No man can establish an obligation upon any part of the American people. My country owes me no debt. It gave me, as it gives every boy and girl, a chance. It gave me schooling, independence of action, opportunity for service and honor. In no other land could a boy from a country village, without inheritance or influential friends, look forward with unbounded hope.

"My whole life has taught me what America means. I am indebted to my country beyond any human power to repay. It conferred upon me the mission to administer America's response to the appeal of afflicted nations during the war. It has called me into two cabinets of two presidents. By these experiences I have observed the burdens and responsibilities of the greatest office in the world. That office touches the happiness of every home. It deals with the peace of nations. No man could think of it except in terms of solemn consecration.

Message to Convention.

"You ask me for a message:

"A new era and new forces have come into our economic life and our setting among nations of the world. These forces demand of us constant study and effort, if prosperity, peace and contentment shall be maintained.

"This convention, like those which have preceded it for two generations, have affirmed the principles of our party and defined its policy upon the problems which now confrontus. I stand upon that platform. At a later date I shall discuss it fully, but in the meantime I may well say that under the principles the victory of the party will assure national defense, maintain economy in the administration of government, protect American workmen, farmers and business men alike, from competition arising out of lower standards of living abroad, foster individual iniative, insure stability of business and employment, promote our foreign commecre and develop our national resources. You have manifested a deep concern in the problems of agriculture. You have pledged the party to support specific and constructive relief upon a nationwide scale backed by the resources of the federal government. We will and must find a sound solution that will bring security and contentment to this great section of our people.

"But the problems of the next four years are more than economic. In a profound sense they are moral and spiritual. This convention has sounded a note of moral leadership.

Many Questions Faced.

"Shall the world have peace? Shall prosperity in this nation be more thoroughly distributed? Shall we build steadily toward the ideal of equal opportunity to all our people? Shall there besecured that obedience to law which is the essential assurance of life of our institutions? Shall honestly and righteousness in government and in business confirm the confidence of the people in their institutions and their laws?

"Government must contribute to leadership in answer to these questions. The government is more than administration it is power for leadership and cooperation with the forces of business and cultural life in city, town and countryside. The presidency is more than executive responsibility. It is the inspiring sumbol of all that is highest in America's purposes and ideals.

"It is vital to the welfare of the United States that the republican party should continue to administer the government.

"It is essential that our party should be continued in organization and in strength in order that it may perpetuate its great principles in our national life.

"If elected by my fellow countrymen I shall give the best within me to advance the moral and material welfare of all our people and uphold the traditions of the republican party, so effectively exemplified by Calvin Coolidge.

(Signed)

WILHELM OBSERVES 40TH ANNIVERSARY THRONE ASCENSION

DOORN, Holland, June 15.—(AP)—Forty years ago today Wilhelm Hohenzollern became German emperor.

In commemoration of this occasion, the former Kaiser this morning conducted special devotional services.

At one o'clock there was a special dinner attended by members of the immediate family and several intimate friends.

Of the former emperor's children, only his eldest son, Prince Frederick William, the former crown prince, had arrived today.

While on Wilhelm's birthday and other festive occasions there usually has been a deluge of letters and telegrams, today comparatively few arrived and this was explained on theg round that the present occasion is a rather painful one.

Women are Learning the Right Way

If you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema, you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

Thousands have been enabled to free themselves of unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

Red blood cells are Nature's way for building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

FINAL SESSION OF CONVENTION STARTS PROMPTLY AT NOON

BUSINESS OF SELECTING A RUNNING MATE FOR HOOVER WAS TAKEN UP

By BYRON PRICE.
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

CONVENTION HALL, Kansas City, June 15.—(AP)—Enough vice-presidential booms to piece out a dozen party tickets were bobbing over the Republican convention today as its delegates came together to select a running mate for Hoover.

Overnight conferences among leaders and much caucusing in state delegations appeared to have established nothing with certainty, and apparently no very insistent advice had come from the new head of the ticket himself. Some of the wisest of the party old timers said it looked like a horse race, and nothing like the picture presented last night when Hoover ran away with the first ballot and was named for president by a vote of nearly four to one over all of his opponents combined.

Some of the state caucuses overlapped the noon convening hour of the convention; other delegates were late because they had been up most of the night trying to figure out a winning combination; and still others figuring that the show was as good as over with the nomination of Hoover, had gone home.

Edge Partisans Busy.

Partisans of Senator Edge of New Jersey distributed throughout the delegate area of the hall hundreds of folders extolling their candidate.

An enthusiastic delegate from New Hampshire had a placard for Senator Moses ready to spring at the psychological moment. It paraphrased a part of the senator's speech as permanent chairman, in which he breathed defiance at the Democrats and Al Smith. "Bring 'em on, Moses can lick 'em," it said.

One of the stories most persistently passed around just before convening time was that after a ballot or two to permit various states to cast an inconclusive scattering of support for their respective favorite sons, the convention would swing to Curtis, who came into the day's session with the imposing support of New York, Illinois, and Pennsylvania, in addition to his own, Kansas, and a number of other states.

After the final convention session had been opened at 12:01 p. m., by prayer, Chairman Moses read to the delegates the telegram sent the convention by Mr. Hoover, who was described by the chairman as "the next president of the United States."

Hoover Message Read.

Many of the delegates listened, but most of them could not hear, for the aisles were blocked with late arrivals, and there was a lot of noise as they jostled about trying to reach their seats.

The new presidential nominee's words were applauded repeatedly by those who did hear. Notably when that part of the message was read in which he said he would stand on the platform adopted by the convention and when he declared that the party "will and must find a sound solution" that would bring security and contentment to agriculture.

While the delegates cheered again, the chairman then read President Coolidge's message of congratulation to the new presidential nominee, and one from Mrs. Coolidge to Mrs. Hoover.

The day's work of choosing second man on the ticket was delayed by performance of the routine task of ratifying selections to the new national committee, complicated by some parliamentary entanglements among the Southern delegations. Senator Moses tried his best to hasten the proceedings. At one juncture he made a parliamentary short cut by announcing with a loud whack of the gaven that the "ayes" had it, when the majority had been so obviously the other way that the chairman himself had to smile and the delegates roared good naturedly.

Nominating Speeches.

The national committee roster finally disposed of, the convention proceeded to hear nominating speeches for the vice-presidency. Alabama, at the head of the roll call, yielded to Connecticut, and Senator Bingham of the latter state took the platform and submitted the name of Representative Tilson, Republican floor leader of the national house of representatives.

Senator Bingham reviewed at length Tilson's political career and praised his record at soldiering in the Spanish war.

In her turn, Arizona yielded to Idaho, and Senator Borah, who pleased the delegates yesterday with his speech against the McNary-Haugen farm plank went to the platform in a hurricane of cheers and nominated Senator Curtis.

"He is the most universally known and most universally beloved of all the public servants in the congress of the United States," said Borah of his colleague from Kansas. "As leader of the senate he has disclosed loyalty to the administration and devotion to the interests of the entire country. He is a product of the Middle West but his sympathies are as broad as the nation and as deep as the heart of humanity itself."

Fully two-thirds of the convention rose and cheered as the Idahoan concluded.

Fuller is Presented.

The next candidate to be paraded before the convention was Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, nominated by B. Loring Young of Weston, Mass. The speaker told the delegates that the Bay state, with the backing of a recent conspicuous example, believed there was no better training for the vice-presidency than the Massachusetts governorship.

On behalf of Michigan, Ira W. Jayne put in nomination former Governor Osborn of that state.

Although the speaker played several times on the fact that Osborn had been a friend and follower of Theodore Roosevelt, the convention hardly heard and gave no applause to that distinguished Republican name.

Immediately Judge Jayne had finished his nominating speech former Governor Osborn himself asked the privilege of addressing the convention. He made a speech praising Herbert Hoover, thanking Kansas City for its hospitality, and wound up by asking his state to withdraw his name "and join the Lion of Idaho in support of Senator Curtis of Kansas."

Governor Sam Baker of Missouri was nominated by Representative Dyer of St. Louis, saying that although his state would cast its electoral vote for whichever of the various disputants might be nominated, she would prefer her own chief executive.

Taking a leaf from the book of former Governor Osborn of Michigan, Governor Baker followed his nomination on the platform with a short speech withdrawing his own candidacy and seconding the nomination of Curtis.

North Dakota yielded her place on the roll call to Wisconsin, and Senator Blaine of that state announced that his state would make no nominating speech, but would vote for "a favorite son." It was indicated the LaFollette delegates would support Herman L. Ekern, a former state attorney general.

That completed the first roll call for nominating speeches.

Before seconding speeches began Senator Bingham presented a message withdrawing in favor of Senator Curtis.

Balloting on vice-president by republican convention began at 1:55 p. m.

Herbert Hoover Congratulates Herbert Hoover

ATLANTA, Ga., June 15.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover congratulated Herbert Hoover on receiving the Republican nomination for the presidency.

A few minutes after the nomination was flashed, the following message was dispatched to the secretary of commerce:

"Herbert Hoover: I congratulate you and the Republican party upon your nomination tonight and pledge my support in your campaign. Herbert Hoover."

The signer of the telegram is an employe of the Atlanta Constitution, and is not related to the nominee.

Hoover Grateful to President Coolidge

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Coolidge's telegram to Secretary Hoover upon his nomination was the first communication answered today by the presidential nominee.

"I am greatly touched by your telegram," the secretary said. "During the last seven years you have given me unremitting friendship and my greatest hope is that it will continue to sustain me in this new task. Your high sense of duty and your devotion to public service will always be for me an inspiration."

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, PRECINCT NO. 1, PLACE NO. 2.

In another place in today's paper will be found the formal announcement of W. T. McFadden as a candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace, precinct No. 1, ject to the action of the democratic Place No. 2, Navarro county, subprimaries.

Mr. McFadden needs no introduction to the voters of precinct No. 1 as he has been a resident of Navarro county for forty-four years, and has made his home in Corsicana for the past sixteen years. An efficient and business like administration is assured by Mr. McFadden should he be elected to the office he seeks, and he is making the race purely on his merits. Mr. McFadden is a married man and has held public office only once. His honesty and integrity are unquestioned and his many friends feel that he is worthy of any confidence placed in him. The vote and influence of the voters of precinct No. 1, are respectfully solicited by Mr. McFadden and all are urged to give his candidacy serious consideration.

HERBERT HOOVER IS REPUBLICAN PARTY'S CHOICE FOR LEADER

NAMED ON FIRST BALLOT THURSDAY NIGHT FOLLOWING DEMONSTRATIONS

BY BYRON PRICE.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Byron Price

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—(AP)—The overwhelming choice of his party convention, Herbert Hoover is the republican presidential nominee of 1928.

His nomination was voted late last night on the first ballot in a landslide that piled at his feet nearly four-fifths of the entire vote of the convention. The alliance against him collapsed and scattered and his chief apponent, Frank O. Lowden, withdrew entirely, disappointed and dissatisfied with the party platform plank on farm relief.

Selection of a nominee for second place was left to today's final session of the big party conclave, called together at noon after republican leaders had sifted over a score of candidates at numberless confabs throughout Kansas City's downtown hotel section and had sought the advice of Hoover himself in Washington.

Second Man Needed.

Once it has come to an agreement on the vice presidential nomination, the convention will be ready to adjourn and go home. A few hours before it made its choice for head of the ticket it had completed adoption of a platform modelled on the Coolidge style of political architecture with a few extra buttresses to fortify it against the special strains of this particular presidential year.

How serious the farm relief dispute may yet become was a subject of speculation everyhere as the delegates prepared to separate. After sending his message of withdrawal to the convention Mr. Lowden boarded a train for his home at Oregon, Ill., without making a further statement or sending his congratulations to the successful candidate. Some of the other farm leaders who had tried in vain to put the party on record as favoring the principles of the McNary-Hugen bill said they were preparing to carry the battle to the democratic convention meeting in Houston on June 26.

Lowden Scores Farm Plank.

The administration farm plank, which led to Lowden's withdrawal, proposes a program of "economic equality" for the farmer but makes no mention of the McNary-Haugen bill or its equalization fee. This plank was given a three to one prefernce vote by the convention iteself. In his message of withdrawal, read to the convention in place of the speech that was to have placed him in nomination, Lowden said that in his opinion the plank adopted did not contain the guarantees agriculture must have to save it from ruin and was so dissappointing that he would not care to be a candidate on the platform as it stands.

Lowden's elimination was followed by the accession of many of his delegates to the Hoover standard, although 74 of the 250 or so that had been credited to him stuck to the captainless ship and voted for Lowden despite his withdrawal. Out of the total of 1084 votes cast, Hoover had in the end 837 with only 543 needed to be nominated. Most of the rest were scattered among Curtis, Watson and Norris with none of them enough to match Lowden's 74.

Coolidge Nominated.

Despite further personal word from President Coolidge that he did not want his name before the convention he was nominated formally by Representative Ralph Cole of Ohio and 17 votes were cast for him—13 from Illinois and four from Ohio.

The nomination was voted by a convention which had undergone a great change since its drab and uninteresting opening last Tuesday. The Hoover people came to the night session manifestly determined to make a jubilee of it while the remnants of the opposing coalition, realizing that the battle was all over, were plainly disposed to keep a stiff upper lip and see it through.

Repeatedly during the hours taken up with nominating and seconding speeches the delegates got entirely out of hand. A Hoover demonstration of more than 20-minutes duration swept the floor at the very beginning of the speech placing him in nomination, with delegates parading through the narrow aisles, singing and shouting and whooping it up for their man in the most approved convention style.. A similar ovation greeted the actual presenting of Hoover's name at the end of the speech and there was a deafening thunder clap of cheering when the result of the first and only ballot was announced toward midnight.

PLAY PRESENTED BARRY HIGH SCHOOL SATURDAY NIGHT

The play "The Old Oaken Bucket," was presented at the high school auditorium of the Barry high school Saturday night to a capacity audience. The play was directed by R. James Poindexter.

This same play will be given at Kerens Tuesday night, Richland Thursday night and Purdon Friday night.

The same cast that presented the play at Barry will be used in all the scheduled appearances.

Music was furnished Saturday night by Miss Ruth Watson, pianist, and Miss Elizabeth Warren of Corsicana, violinist.

In addition to the play, Mr. Poindexter gave a reading, "Failure," his own composition.

Richard Daniels, graduate of Baylor Medical College, left Friday for Austin after visiting friends and relatives here.

FRIENDSHIP MADE FLIGHT WITH FIRST WOMAN PASSENGER

[illegible] the nearby rushed to the port and [illegible] via- city of Llanelly and gave the [illegible]tors a great reception.

In the confusion of news from Burry Port, reports were received in London that there had been four passengers on the plane, including Lincoln Ellsworth, the American explorer. Advices from New York however, definitely stated that Mr. Ellsworth was in that city.

The fliers were in the best of spirits as they landed. Stultz told the Associated Press that the plane had been forced to land because of a shortage of fuel. He said bad weather and a heavy mist accompanied the ship the greater part of the journey while rain was almost incessant.

To Continue to Bristol.

Stultz immediately made preparations to obtain fresh supplies of gasoline to proceed to Bristol as soon as possible.

The London newspapers this afternoon were still publishing reports that four persons were aboard the plane including Ellsworth, but this apparently was incorrect. Efforts to learn definitely if there were four passengers, and if so who was thefourth, were hindered by the difficulty of communications with Burry Port and the confusion attendant upon the arrival of the Trans-Atlantic plane at that little place.

BURRY PORT, Wales, June 18.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic monoplane, Friendship, remained at Bury Port tonight. Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, the fliers, said they hoped to fly to Southampton tomorrow.

President Sends Message.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg today sent cablegrams to Miss Amelia Earhart congratulating her upon her successful trans-Atlantic flight.

Weather Auspicious For Sunday Takeoff

TREPASSEY, N. F., June 18.—(AP)—Miss Amelia Earhart and two men hopped off yesterday morning at 9:51 Eastern Standard time on a trans-Atlantic flight. They hoped to reach Valencia, Ireland, in 18 hours.

While the people of this sleepy little harbor on the Southern end of the Avalon peninsula intoned their prayers at church the big pontoon-equipped Fokker monoplane, Friendship, roared across the harbor, rose into the air to circle over the village and then headed east into a cloudless sky.

The takeoff was made only after five unsuccessful attempts and the dumping of 30 gallons of gasoline, 200 pounds, which reduced the fuel supply to about 700 gallons—less than 20 hours consumption for the three 220 horsepower Wright Whirlwind motors.

The same confidence which Miss Earhart had shown during the 13 days she and her companions awaited favorable weather, prevailed as she took her place in the cockpit with Wilmer Stultz, the pilot, and Lou Gordon, mechanic.

"We are going today in spite of everything," she said as she rose early in the morning and scanned the weather reports indicating favorable conditions with following winds for all but 700 miles of the almost 2,000 mile journey. "And we'll make it."

Half an hour later they were started on their great adventure.

They were reported by a steamer as they cleared the tip of Newfoundland and started out along the steamer track toward their destination. Through the day and early hours of the night other steamers reported them, either by sight or through the medium of the Friendship's radiocasts. Stultz was acting as both pilot and radioman and when he was sending Miss Earhart was at the controls.

Mrs. Frederick Guest, wife of the former British secretary of state for air, is backer of the flight. Mrs. Guest, the former Amy Phipps of Pittsburgh, said that the flight was being made in the hope it would be another link in the Friendship chain between England and the United States and "truly helpful to aviation."

Columbia Crew is Sorely Disappointed

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 18.—(AP)—In the face of continued adverse weather over the Great Circle course, the monoplane Columbia was groomed for a possible trans-Atlantic hop today while its crew strove to conceal disappointment at the march stolen by Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions aboard the Friendship.

Mabel Boll, who wanted to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic and who is the leading spirit of the Columbia expedition, could not conceal her agitation when she learned that the Boston aviatrix had disregarded weather predictions and set her face toward Europe.

There were reports of serious dissension in the Columbia camp here with Miss Boll depicted as far from satisfied with judgment of her pilot, Capt. Oliver Leboutillier.

LeBoutillier had expressed the opinion a few hours after Miss Earhart's departure that the Friendship was only circling the coast to study weather conditions and asserted the Columbia "would not be drawn out." Later when it became apparent that the other ship was off in earnest, Miss Boll said: "I just cannot imagine Bill Stultz taking such a foolhardy jump with a three-corner gale raging in the Atlantic. I wish them luck but I think twenty hours' fuel is not sufficient to carry them across."

Steamer Sighted Friendship First

LONDON, June 18.—(AP)—The first air crossing of the Atlantic ocean by a woman has been accomplished.

The American hydro-airplane, Friendship, carrying Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, was reported in a press association dispatch to have landed in Burry Estuary, off Burry Port, Wales, at 12:40 p. m. (6:40 a. m., Eastern Standard time), just 20 hours and 49 minutes after hopping off from Trepassey, Newfoundland.

About 11 a. m., (5 a. m., Eastern Standard time), the big Pontoon-equipped Fokker monoplane had been sighted 75 miles southeast of Cobh, Ireland, by the American steamship America.

The first definite message that the Friendship had succeeded in crossing the Atlantic came this morning from Captain George Fried, commander of the steamship America, who identified the plane by its number.

Captain Fried sent the message to the London office of the Associated Press. The message read: "[illegible]nty-five miles southeast of "Se[illegible] (Cobh) the seaplane Queenstown [illegible]004 circled over- Friendship NX-[illegible] [t]o drop two head and attempted [illegible] [n]ot suc- notes on board but was [illegible] cessful. The plane then [illegible] north. (Signed) "Fried."

(NX-4204 is the number on the rudder of the trans-Atlantic plane Friendship.)

Watching For Plane.

Captain Fried's sighting of the Friendship was not an accident as he was watching for her. The jovial commander who was the hero of the Antinoe rescue of several years ago, is intensely interested in trans-Atlantic flying and had made plans to be on the keenest lookout for the plane.

Before sailing from Southampton yesterday, the captain plotted the Friendship's probable course and announced confidently that he expected to sight the plane. When Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic, Captain Fried diverted the course of his ship to north and was on the bridge almost continuously for 24 hours watching for the Spirit of St. Louis. He also arranged special searchlights at night and a heavy smoke screen by day to attract the plane. On this occasion he missed the trans-Atlantic flier by about thirty miles only Lands Near Burry Port.

The Friendship, without warning slipped in over Bristol channel which is at the mouth of the river Severn and came down in Burry Estuary several miles off Burry Port.

It was 12:40 p. m., Just 20 hours and 49 minutes after the Friendship took off from Trepassey, Newfoundland, where she had been held about ten days by unfavorable weather and difficulty in making a takeoff with her great load of gasoline.

The tri-motored ship, the first equipped with pantoons to make the direct crossing, came to rest as the tide was fully out and the pontoons soon drove their noses into the sand close to shore.

A launch was sent out immediately to the plane to determine the wishes of the fliers and render any assistance possible.

Three women have lost their lives in previously attempted trans-Atlantic flights and the only one attempting it who was not lost Ruth Elder, was forced down before she had reached her goal.

The first was Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, 62-year-old Englishwoman, who took off from Upavon, England, August 8, 1927, in the plane St. Raphael with Captain Leslie Hamilton and Col. F. F. Minchin on an attempted flight to Ottawa, Can.

The second woman to sail away into the unknown and never return was Mrs. Francis Wilson Grayson, who with three men companions left Roosevelt Field December 23, after passing Cape Cod they were never heard from or seen.

The third woman lost in an ocean flight was the Hon. Elsie MacKay who with Captain Walter Hinchliffe attempted the Westward crossing from England, starting March 13.

Ruth Elder was forced down near a steamer off the Azores in her plane the American girl while attempting a New York to Paris flight last year.

London Receives News.

LONDON, June 18.—(AP)—A Press Association dispatch from Llanelly Wales, says the trans-Atlantic plane, Friendship, came down in Burry Estuarry off Bury Port at 12:40 p. m.

The Llanelly dispatch said a motorboat put off immediately to ascertain the crew's intentions.

Burry Port is on the South Carmarthenshire coast, four miles west of Llanelly. It is in approximately the same latitude as the Southern coast of Ireland, and is about 130 miles northwest of Southampton, the goal of the American fliers.

Crew Not Fatigued.

BURRY PORT, Wales, June 18.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic monoplane, Friendship, landed in Burry Estuary on the Carmarthenshire coast shortly after noon today owing to a lack of fuel.

Her crew looked well when taken ashore by motorboat and did not appear fatigued by the 2,000 mile air journey from Trepassey, Newfoundland.

The Friendship was first sighted at Llanelly, near Swansea, about noon. She was flying low through a mist and was skirting the coast looking for a suitable landing place on the Llanelly foreshore. Then she disappeared toward Burry Port.

A few minutes later she was sighted at Burry Port, circled Burry Inlet for a few moments and then dropped to a landing. She taxied along the River LLwchwr and came to a halt soon after, making fast to a buoy.

A motorboat immediately went out and took the plane's passengers ashore in the presence of hundreds of persons who ran across the marshy swamp near the scene for a distance of three-quarters of a mile to greet the intrepid aviators.

The region in which the fliers had ended their brilliant flight across the ocean made a depressing scene, but the aviators did not seem to mind and looked well after their long journey.

(Burry Port is a small seaport fur miles west of Llanelly. It has a tidal harbor and dock and a copper smelting works.)

Miss Earhart Happy.

Burry Port, Wales, June 18.—(AP)—"I am very glad we have done it and very happy we've landed," said Miss Amelia Earhart to a correspondent of the Associated Press as she stepped ashore from the monoplane Friendship.

"I am too tired to say more."

LITTLE TOWN EXCITED.

BURY PORT, Wales, June 18.—(AP)—While all England and Ireland waited on tiptoe this morning to welcome the American trans-Atlantic plane, Friendship, from her Atlantic flight, Miss Amelia Earhart, the first woman to conquer the great ocean by air, and her two companions settled down unexpectedly in Burry Estuary, Wales, shortly after noon today.

Not in years has this tiny port experienced such a thrill as when the big plane swooped into the Estuary carrying the first woman ever to cross the Atlantic by air.

It was doubtful if many people in the little port even knew that the plane was en route from Newfoundland. However, it did not take long for news of the great achievement to spread and the population quivered with excitement at being in on such a feat.

Bad Weather Encountered.

Burry Port, Wales, June 18.—(AP)—Bad weather and heavy mist, accompanied the Friendship for the greater part of her journey, while rain was almost incessant, Pilot Wilmer Stultz told the Associated Press correspondent.

"As you know," he said, "we hopped off from Newfoundland at 9:51 o'clock yesterday morning and intended landing in Ireland. However, lack of fuel forced our hand and we had to look for a landing place elsewhere."

Stultz was in the best of spirits and immediately went off to the telephone to give news of the arrival of the Friendship and to order fresh supplies of gasoline.

He said it was the intention of the crew to proceed to Bristol, which was their destination, as soon as possible.

Mother of Girl Prays.

MEDFORD, Mass., June 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart, mother of Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly the Atlantic, was too wearied by her night's vigil to meet reporters today. A night spent in prayer, beside a radio receiving set had taxed her nervous endurance to the utmost.

Friends, speaking for her, said that Mrs. Earhart received the news of her daughter's safety with the deepest sense of thankfulness and that she wanted to say simply that she was "very glad."

Stultz's Mother is Thankful.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Clara Stultz, of Williamsburg, informed that her son, Wilmer Stultz, had piloted the plane, Friendship, safely across the Atlantic, exclaimed: "Thank God, that's over."

Mrs. Stultz, a widow, had kept a long vigil, awaiting word of her son's success.

Wife of Pilot Excited.

MINEOLA, N. Y., June 18.—(AP)—When word came that her husband had guided his plane safely through the Atlantic storms and was nearing his destination—England—Mrs. Wilmer Stultz guessed she'd "never want to sleep again."

"I was too anxious to eat," she explained. "And now I guess I'm too excited."

"I was getting awfully tired," she admitted, "but now I feel like I'd never want to sleep again."

To Greet Flyers.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 18.—(AP)—Captain H. H. Railey, representative of the Friendship in England; Mrs. Frederick Guest, sponsor of the flight, and several other persons took off for for Burry Port in a seaplane at 3:15 p. m.

Only Three Aboard

ST. JOHN'S N. F., June 18.—(AP)—Newspapermen and photographers who were at Trepassey all the time the Friendship was in Trepassey harbor said today that there were only three persons on board the plane when it took off for Europe.

HOOVER RECEIVES CONVENTION VOTE IN CAPITAL HOME

By CLINTON COFFIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, issued today his first campaign document in the form of a telegram of appreciation to the Kansas City convention that selected him last night as its standard bearer. His message, directed to Chairman Moses for transmission to the delegates, was deliberately expanded beyond the usual note of appreciation to a sketch of the position he will take as a candidate.

"Government is more than administration," he told the representatives of his party. "It is power for leadership in co-operation with the forces of business and cultural life in city, town and countryside. The presidency is more than executive responsibility. It is the inspiring symbol of all that is highest in America's purposes and ideals."

He dealt sharply with the contest over farm relief program before congress and the convention, asserting his stand on the Republican platform in the matter but concluding that "we will and must find a sound solution (of agricultural problems) that will bring security and contentment to this great section of our people."

Indebted to Country.

In the personal note with which his message opened he disclaimed some of the compliments paid him and declared himself "indebted to my country beyond any human power to repay." No man, he added, could think of the presidency "except in terms of solemn consecration."

Though late to bed after the jubilant triumph with which his friends at home hailed his nomination the secretary was early at his office and drafted first of all the message. The burdened telegraph wires brought to him an ever mounting pile of congratulatory notes, from all parts of the world as well as from leaders in every walk of American life.

The business of the commerce department, still in his hands, though his resignation is expected shortly, engaged him occasionally.

He was caught by one demonstration of commerce department employees and others as he passed swiftly to his private office but once closeted there the visitors in general were turned back by his corps of aides, to give him leisure to attend to the increasing burden of campaign detail.

In spite of the overwhelming convention majority behind his nomination, the outward show of neutrality in the vice presidential selection was kept up in Washington and there was no announcement or informal discussion of any major campaign details.

ed upon the world today a happy man, who had struggled to the pinnacle of honor within the gift of his party.

Closing surrounded by his most intimate friends and neighbors, he spent the nomination night in his home. There he took, in his study, the first burst of the storm of congratulations that is still hovering over him, Mrs. Hoover by his side.

It had been open house in the Hoover abode all evening for a sizeable throng of Washington notables who live in the fashionable neighborhood where he has resided during his tenure of cabinet office.

Throughout the early part of the evening while nominating and seconding speeches were being made, Mr. and Mrs Hoover sat with their guests, but as the climatic moment of the voting approached, the secretary withdrew to his private study.

Meanwhile the guests were busy with pencils totalling up the Hoover vote as it was called. When New York's 90 votes gave the merce secretary two more the necessary 545, there was a for the secretary's study w flushed and smiling, Mr. H accepted their congratulations

A group of newspaper men too, had waited for the nomin within the Hoover home were en an audience with the new didate. At the moment, he d ed to make any utterance for lication, accepted their thank congratulations and promise see them today.

It is known that he expects sign office in due course, withdraw to his California h to await formal notification o nomination and plan a campa

NINE ADDITIONS REPORTED TO FIRST BAPTIST ON SUNDAY

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL AND INTERESTING SERVICES

The members of the First Baptist church congregation report very fine services for the entire day Sunday, with 656 present in Sunday school and a collection of $448.46. A special call meeting of all the depatmental superintendents was held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Superintendent C. A. Middleton and the officers of the Sunday school outlined the work for the next quarter.

The sermons on Sunday by Pastor J. Howard Williams, were of a special interest ot the congregation, his messages being in the morning service, "Distractions," and the evening service, "A Dream." Both services were well attended and increased interest was shown at each service. Nine additions to the church was reported at the close of the services. At the morning service, the choir sang "Gracious Father" by Beethoven, and at the evening service, Mr. Lloyd Kerr sang "Glory to Thee" by Gounod. This solo was greatly appreciated by the congregation, Mr. Kerr having an unusual fine voice.

In the adult department, the Alathean class led in attendance with 49 present, and the Pals came fast on this attendance mark, with 48 present.

The Daily Vacation Bible Study school had set for its goal 300 enrolled and on Monday morning reached the 308 mark with 207 present. Tuesday morning, pictures by the department will be taken and all members are urged to be present at 8 o'clock.

July first will begin the open-air revival meeting on Thirteenth avenue, known as the Magnolia baseball park. Pastor J. Howard Williams will conduct these services each evening at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

PREDATORY FISH WILL BE KILLED USE ELECTRICITY

AUSTIN, June 18.—(AP)—Destruction of predatory fish through use of electicity will be tried again by the state game, fish and oyster department, after one successful experiment, it was announced Monday at the department.

Fish were brought to the surface near Del Rio in an unconscious condition by an electric current discharged in the water in the first experiment. The floating fish were gathered into a boat, suckers were dumped on the shore, and the bass and perch returned to the water where they soon regained self control and swam away. Not a fish was killed by the current, which ranged in voltage from 330 to 440.

The experiment was made as the result of published reports that engineers in Germany had successfully cleared ponds of predatory or otherwise undesirable fish by this method.

Another tryout is to be made in Devils River where gars of great size are working havoc with the fish population. Engineers believe that gars and snakes can be brought to the surface with a degree of voltage not injurious to game fish.

Lad Starts Long Ride to Call on Nation's President

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 18.—(AP)—Bent on seeing President Coolidge, Boyd Jones, 14, is headed east mounted on his favorite pony. He has been delegated to invite the chief executive to attend the inter-tribal Indian ceremonial at Gallup, N. M.

Leaving his home town last week, Boyd reached Santa Rosa, N. M., yesterday from where he wrote newspapers he was making good progress and that the pony was "holding out all right."

He fears an obstacle to his progress when he reaches Amarillo, Texas. "I will be in Amarillo next Sunday and if my mother doesn't stop me with a barrel stave I'll be lucky," he said.

"She did not know that I was going to make this trip."

The boy's mother was in Amarillo when he started from Gallup and her first news of his departure was through newspapers.

SENATOR CURTIS RISES FROM LOWLY START TO HIGH POSITION IN LAND

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15.—(AP)—From blanket Indian to vice president will be the romantic career of Charles Curtis if elected in November.

Plain Charles Curtis, Charlie to his friends, took this convention by storm because it recognized his sturdy manhood drawn from the blood of his Kaw Indian forebears and the fire and daring of his French-Canadian-American sire.

In obtaining the republican indorsement for vice president he brushed against that of president and still was in the race when the contenders came down the home stretch.

Racing is nothing new to Charles Curtis. He earned his first real salary as a jockey. He was the Earl Sande of the West in the '70s, and if Curtis would abandon dignity and talk the language of other days he probably would say: "I was in the money."

Sent Back Home.

Today Charles Curtis is not thinking of what he has accomplished. His mind has harked back to a moonlight night on the plains of Kansas when his wrinkled old grandmother, Julie Poppin, crawled to his mere lad's side around the Indian camp fire.

"Go back to your white ancestors, my boy," she impored.

For Charles Curtis had fled from his father's relatives in Topeka and rejoined the Kaws while they were on the march. The boy demurred, he preferred the open, free life of the plains. He loved Julie Poppin and her devotion to her grandson consumed her soul.

She led her pony to the shadows beyond the campfire, lifted the boy into the saddle and Charles Curtis began his ride to fame, never again returning to his Indians except as a guest.

In Topeka Curtis took up his residence with his father's sister entered the public schools and for a few years lived the life of a normal American buy. But Curtis' is a restless ond energetic nature. He wished to earn his living. He began to sell refreshments as a "news butcher" at the railroad station after schol hours and did odd jobs for anybody who would employ him.

He Knew Horses.

His keen knowledge of horses learned on the plains, attracted the attention of a race horse man who employed him as jockey. Curtis took to this job with glee, and during his several years campaigning with horses up and down the western circuits he shot more winners across than any other jockey.

When school time came around his aunt had trouble getting him off the track and into the schoolroom. Even in the schoolroom the boy's mind would wander to the stable and track, until finally his aunt told him that he could race no more. And thus another phase of Curtis' life was closed forever. He raced horses no more.

He then became seriously interested in his studies and finished among the first of his class. He was chosen to make the high school commencement oration, and did it so well that Mrs. A. H. Case, who heard him, persuaded her husband then the most prominent lawyer in the section, to let the boy study law in his office.

So Charles became the office boy and janitor law student of the firm of A. H. Case. He swept the floor and ran errands, but soon found that he needed funds or else must depend on relatives and friends for support.

He contracted with a liveryman to drive a hack on the streets of Topeka at night and split the profits. He was so popular that he made more money than did the regular drivers.

He finished his law course and was admitted to the bar in 1881 and became Cace'spartner. In 1884 at the age of 24, he was elected prosecuting attorney for Shawnee county.

Saloon Crusade.

At once he started a crusade against vice and saloons, and closed them up. Frequently he was the center of gun play, but unarmed he escaped injury.

His ability soon was recognized beyond his home time and he was chosen to run for the house of representatives in 1889, but was defeated. He came back two years later, was elected to the Fifty-third congress and each succeeding congress to the sixtieth. But before he could take his seat in the Sixtieth congress he had been called higher and took a seat in the senate in 1907 to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Joseph E. Burton.

Returns to Senate.

In 1912 he tasted defeat again, this time at the hands of Senator J. L. Bristow, a Populist candidate. He met him again, however, in 1914, in the first direct primary held in Kansas and was victorious.

His ability as a parliamentarian and diagnostician of legislative situations brought him to the attention of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, then the majority leader of the Senate. He was Lodge's right-hand man until death removed the venerable leader, and Curtis was placed in his shoes.

He led the senate until Friday, when he was offered to the people as republican vice presidential candidate. Whether he will next preside over the senate remains for November to decide.

Daughter Delegate.

While assistant leader of the senate, Curtis lost his wife, who was Anne E. Baird of Topeka. They were married in 1884 and enjoyed a great devotion. For months before the end he sat by her bedside throughout the entire night, coming to the senate in the morning worn with fatigue. He would carry on through the day with only a little sleep snatched on a couch in his office. A daughter was born of this union, and Friday she sat on the convention floor as a delegate from Rhode Island, Leona Curtis Knight.

Curtis' courage showed early. At the age of 8, while he was attending an Indian mission, the Cheyennes attacked the Kaws, and during the thick of the battle young Curtis slipped through the lines of the Ceyennes, ran and walked alone for fifty-seven miles to Topeka to call the United States troops.

FORMER SECRETARY AGRICULTURE DEAD AT DES MOINES HOME

EDWIN T. MEREDITH, PUBLISHER, WAS MEMBER WILSON'S CABINET

DES MOINES, Ia., June 18.—(AP)—Edwin T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture in the Wilson cabinet, died last night. The end of a long illness came at 6 o'clock as Mr. Meredith slept.

At the bedside of the 51-year-old farm publisher and democratic presidential candidate were Mrs. Meredith; his mother, Mrs. M. J. Meredith of Los Angeles; a son, a daughter, four brothers and a sister.

Heart failure resulting from high blood pressure was given as the cause of death. Mr. Meredith had been ill for several months, but the illness did not take a critical turn until a month ago, shortly after he had returned from John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he had gone for observation.

Funeral services will be held from the Meredith home Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Despite his illness, Mr. Meredith permitted the use of his name against Gov. Al Smith of New York in the recent Iowa democratic presidential preference primary, which Gov. Smith won. Mr. Meredith always had been known as a "progressive dry" and he was an outspoken opponent of the New York governor's views on prohibition.

Besides his political activities, Mr. Meredith was widely known as the publisher of farm papers.

An inherited love of the soil and general interest in the welfare of farmers lifted Edwin T. Meredith from youthful obscurity to national prominence and a place in President Wilson's cabinet.

He started in boyhood as a real "dirt" farmer, the occupation of his father and his grandfather. A high school education and one year at college weaned him away from actual work on the farm, but tended to increase his interest in the lot of those who till the soil.

Mr. Meredith's grandfather, in addition to his agricultural interests, was the publisher of a farm weekly, The Farmers' Tribune. It was devoted to Populism and met with financial difficulties when that movement died out.

Having completed a year in Highland Park College, Des Moines, young Meredith, then 20 years of age, borrowed $1,800 with which he purchased his grandfather's publication. Through six years it brought him much hard work and little success. The Farmers' Tribune was discontinued and in its place Mr. Meredith established Successful Farming as a monthly periodical.

That proved the foundation of the successful Meredith Publications, the name of Mr. Meredith's business, to which eventually were added "Better Homes and Gardens" and "The Dairy Farmer," the three having a combined month circulationof more than 2,000,000.

Through his publications and recognition as a business leader in Des Moines, the growth of Mr. Meredith's influence was a natural sequence, and led him into politics. In 1914 he was democratic candidate for United States senator from Iowa and two years later was his party's candidate for governor of that state. He was defeated on both occasions.

In 1917, William G. McAdoo, then secretary of the treasury, appointed Mr. Meredith to the board of excess profits advisers. Two years later President Wilson named him a member of the industrial conference commission and in January, 1920, selected him for the post of secretary of agriculture to succeed David F. Houston.

Continuing his interest in public affairs, Mr. Meredith became one of the leaders of the "progressive Drys' element of the democratic party. Although not an active candidate for the democratic nomination for president in 1924, his name was presented to the convention and he received 130 votes on the 101st ballot to rank third behind John W. Davis and Oscar W. Underwood.

He was again in the race for the nomination in 1928, being put forth as Iowa's favorite son candidate in an effort to win delegates in the pre-convention campaign from Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. The ticket favoring the New York governor, however, was successful in the Iowa primary election.

Edwin Thomas Meredith was born at Avoca, Iowa, December 23, 1876, the son of Thomas Oliver and Minnie Minerva Meredith. He married Miss Edna C. Elliott of Des Moines in 1896. They had two children.

The early interest of the former secretary in agriculture was kindled when, as a boy, he worked after school and during vacations on his father's farm. He got his first taste of the publishing business while he was in college, working during his spare time in the shop of his grandfather. It was during that time also that he conceived the idea of aiding farmers generally through farm papers and when he left college he went to work for his grandfather for $8 a week.

After he had become successful as a publisher, Mr. Meredith maintained actual contact with agricultural conditions through a large dairy farm on the outskirts of Des Moines. There he specialized in purebred Jersey cattle.

Mr. Meredith served as president of the Associated Advertising clubs of the World in 1919. Hs was a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago from the establishment of the Federal Reserve System until his appointment as secretary of agriculture. He also was a director of the audit bureau of circulation and of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Soon after the United States entered the World war, Mr. Meredith was appointed a member of a labor commission which visited Europe as guests of the British government. The members of the commission studied labor conditions in Great Britain, France and Italy and delivered many addresses to workers in shipyards and munition plants telling them of the preparations the United States was making for its part in the war.

Mr. Meredith was actively interested in club work for farm boys and girls. He helped organize and for several years was chairman of the National Committee on Farm Boys and Girls Club Work. In one of his personal projects in that connection loans were made to boys and girls to enable them to acquire livestock of their own and have a personal interest in production.

GOD LONG WAY OFF.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—In the opinion of Rev. Thomas H. Whepley, taxi driver, God is a long way from Gotham town. He told his Presbyterian congregation of his experience as hackman A51804, which he underwent in order to study the city. He found that many live by the one commandment, "Don't Get Caught."

ICE MOVEMENTS CKED UNIFORMITY AT MARKET OPENING

TORS, STEELS AND COP- ERS SHOW MANIFESTA- TIONS OF HEAVINESS

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)— [illegible]y selling of U. S. Steel common, which dropped more than 3 points to a new low for the year [illegible]185, turned the course of prices downward today after an early period of irregularity. Radio, Atlantic Coast line, International Harvester, Curtiss Aero, Wright Aero and other high priced specialties [illegible] four to 15 points below their earlier highs.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Price movements lacked uniformity at the opening of today's stock market. Motors, steels and coppers showed early manifestations of group heaviness. General Motors had an initial decline of 1 to 4 points, Woolworth 1 and Bethlehem Steel and Anaconda Copper, [illegible] each. Wright Aeronautical opened 2 points higher and Radio, Consolidated Gas and Nash Motors showed initial gains of a point or more.

Rallying tendencies became more pronounced as the session progressed, particularly in the copper trades. Greene Cananea ran up more than 3 points and American Smelting 1 1-2. International Nickel opened 1 3-4 points lower at 91 and then climbed to 93 1-4.

Speculation in the airplane issues was stimulated by the announcement that Miss Earhart in the seaplane Friendship had successfully negotiated the trans-Atlantic crossing. Wright quickly extended its early gain of 5 points and Curtis moved up 3.

Case Threshing and Atlantic Refining moved up 3 points before the end of the first half hour and gains of a point or more were recorded by a score of others including International Paper, Gold Dust, Paramount Famous, Otis Elevator and International Combusion. General Motors made up its early loss but Radio dropped from 168 to 153.

Foreign Exchanges opened steady with Sterling Cables unchanged at [illegible]88 1-8.

The closing was weak. "Bear" sharpshooters wrought havoc among some of the recognized leaders. The magnitude of selling orders drove many shares well under the low points reached in last week's dramatic break in prices. DuPont flopped to 350, Radio to [illegible]58 1-4, and Wright Aero to 131. Canadian Pacific at 106 was at the year's lowest. Total sales approximated 1,900,000 shares.

New Orleans Cotton Firm.

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—(AP)—The cotton market was firm in early trading today, first trades showing gains of 2 to 4 points in response to higher Liverpool cables than due.

As New York started much firmer the local market continued to advance after the start helped materially by reports of hail and sandstorms in Northwest Texas and Oklahoma as well as several bullish private reviews of the market. July trade dup to 20.45, October 20.18 and December 20.11, or 18 to 21 points above the previous close.

Towards the end of the first hour the market was steady and at the highs.

The market continued to advance after the start, buying being stimulated by reports of storm damage in the west and increasing weevil infestation in the east. July advanced to 20.60, October 20.32 and December 20.30, or 33 to 35 points above the previous close.

At mid-session the market was steady and at the highs.

New York Cotton Steady.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 to 14 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports of overflows in the Mississippi Valley. Trading was comparatively quiet at the start, but the market soon became more active on covering or rebuying by recent sellers and some buying supposed to be for foreign trade account.

October sold up to 20.74 by the end of the first hour, the market showing net advances of 16 to 23 points.

Forecast for showers or thundershowers over a great part of the South stimulated buying in the forenoon. October sold up to 20.80, with active months generally showing net advances of about 24 to 29 points. At these figures there was a little realinzing, while the buying subsided somewhat and prices eased off 4 or 5 points around mid-day.

HERALD SQUARE IS SCENE SPECTACULAR SLAYING SUNDAY

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Police today were seeking a well dressed portly man who shot and killed a bootlegger near crowded Herald Square yesterday and escaped with three companions in a dark blue sedan.

The victim, Edward Carter, alias Harold Atwater, alias Edwin Mack, bootlegger and pickpocket, ex-convict, died on the operating table, wounded six times in the head and body.

Carter met his death when traffic lights stopped the coupe in which he was being driven north on Broadway by a woman companion. The slayer's sedan crossed east on 36th street directly in front of Carter's machine and halted about fifty feet from Sixth avenue.

A man stepped from the sedan, cut across the sidewalk, and fired three shots through the glass of the coupe. While the woman pushed herself deep into the cushions, the man jumped to the running board and fired again three times at close range. Carter crumpled to the floor.

The assailant regained his sedan, which lost itself in traffic.

Carter's companion, her face apparently cut by glass, slipped into a nearby restaurant where a crowd of screaming women who had witnessed the attack made it possible for her to disappear unnoticed.

The car in which Carter was killed was identified as one registered in the name of Miss Doris Sheerin, chorus girl and night club entertainer. She walked into police headquarters and said she knew Carter as "E. Jack Kayton," having met him in a night club several weeks ago. She said she frequently loaned him her car, but he took it yesterday without her consent. The police did not detain her.

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Owing largely to Liverpool quotations lower than looked for and to favorable weather northwest, wheat prices here averaged lower today in the early dealings. Heavy rains over domestic winter wheat sections southwest, however, led to rallies.

Wheat closed weak, 1 3-8 to 1 3-4c net lower, corn 1-2 @ 5-8c to 1 3-8c down, oats at 1-4c decline to an equal advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

Opening 5-8c to 1 3-8c down, Chicago wheat continued most of the time to fluctuate below Saturday's finish. Corn and oats were also easy, with corn 3-8c to 1 1-8c off, and subsequently holding near to the initial range. Provisions tended up grade.

KERENS HAS CHANCE SECURE NATURAL GAS ACCORDING REPORT

KERENS, June 18.—(Spl) — A mass meeting was held at the city hall Friday afternoon for the purpose of considering the Community Gas Company's proposition to extend their lines to Kerens. H. H. Walker of Dallas represents the company.

Before a group of about thirty-five business men, Mr. Walker told them that Kerens could have natural gas within forty-five days from this date providing steps would be taken at once to procure the signatures of not less than 275 prospective gas consumers who would agree to connect onto the main gas line within 90 days after it was laid to Kerens.

Mr. Walker also stated that Powell, six miles west of Kerens, was now at work to secure natural gas, and that they had almost completed their quota of gas consumers. When this is completed it will be an easy matter to extend the line to Kerens, however, if Powell fails to reach their quota it does not mean that this will affect Kerens in any way.

Plans for beginning a canvass of the town was discussed, after which Chairman E. E. Nettles appointed a committee composed of L. Murphrey, E. H. Gray, L. E. Lamb, J. A. Daniel, Luther Westbrook and J. J. Mabry for this work. It was not decided upon when they would start as Mr. Walker was to meet with the City council immediately after this meeting. But it was understood that in event the quota of 275 names was handed in to the Community Gas Co., that within the next few days they would commence work and the main gas line would be laid to Kerens within forty-five days from that date. If action is taken in this matter now, Kerens stands a good chance to be supplied with natural gas before another winter sets in.

SENATOR M'NARY FINDS NOMINEE OF PARTY SYMPATHETIC

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill vetoed by President Coloidge, conferred with Secretary Hoover, republican presidential nominee today. McNary, after the conference, said he found Secretary Hoover "sympathetic and anxious to relieve the distress of our farm population."

M'Nary said if the remedy was tried and found to be ineffective in his opinion congress and the administration would unite in an effort to devise a more effective remedy that would prove sound.

"In the absence of the president, who I believe to be in accord, I have discussed the subject with the republican nominee, Mr. Hoover, and found him sympathetic and anxious to relieve the distress of our farm poplation, and I bespeak for 7,000,000 farmers and their able leaders the same fine offer of assistance and consideration to the end that farm relief legislation may be enacted and approved at the next session of congress."

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—For the present at least, Herbert Hoover intends to retain his post as secretary of commerce, and if he has formulated any other campaign plans, they remain a closely guarded secret.

Within the next week or so, however, it is expected that Mr. Hoover's program will begin to take on a definite outline, as he consults with party leaders returning from the Kansas City convention and receives their advice and opinions on the conduct of the campaign.

On Thursday, a special committee from the republican national committee, headed by Ralph Williams of Oregon, is to meet the nominee at the Willard Hotel here, for an expression of his wishes as to the national chairmanship.

Until this has been done no one will be named to succeed William M. Butler of Massachusetts, incumbent. A number of men are in line for the job, including Secretary Work, James W. Good, Claudius Houston, Walter F. Brown and Williams and Butler.

Just how soon Mr. Hoover will resign from the cabinet and devote his entire time to the campaign today was a subject for speculation.

A statement issued by the Oregon senator after the conference was accepted as indicating he was willing to abandon the equalization fee of the farm relief bill.

"In my judgment the enactment of the bill that passed last session of congress with the omission of the equalization fee would improve the condition of agriculture," McNary said. "At least it would supply the basis upon which helpful legislation could be fashioned."

Secretary Hoover got a chance today to take up the official business of his cabinet post, the first since the outburst of activity produced by his nomination. Arriving at his office after a night's rest he found his desk still piled high with messages of congratulations, chiefly cablegrams from all over the world. After the visit of McNary, he was able to attend to department business. He left the department at noon on a purely official mission. The commerce department is constructing a new building and the secretary took with him prints and data relating to the structure.

It was the first noon hour that the secretary has been able to utilize away from his office and even then he was caught by the group of attentive watchers who have been on voluntary duty since the nomination. One man, Thomas J. Casey, a Seattle attorney, had a baseball autographed by Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, and other celebrities of the diamond. When he asserted that the ball was intended as a present for a small daughter, the secretary laughed and autographed it with his fountain pen.

ARKANSAS AND MISSOURI FARMS BEING FLOODED

KENNETT, Mo., June 16.—(AP)—A desperate fight for homes and crops was lost early today when the St. Francis river levee six miles northwest of here gave way spreading waste and destruction over a five mile area. Hundreds of families have been driven from their homes.

Weakened by seepage which persisted in spite of anything that could be done by 3,000 farmers, professional and business men who labored on into the night, the levee wall crashed at 1:30 this morning, the crevasse, 150 feet wide at the start, had increased to 300 feet by 8 o'clock.

A proclamation was issued by the mayor of Kennett asking all business houses to close and requesting that all available men be sent to strengthen the levee in anticipation of a third rise, which is expected to reach its highest proportions Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Authorities believe the crest of this flood will be a foot and a half higher than the one which swept the levee aside this morning.

Along the river north to Campbell workmen were making a strenuous effort to strengthen the weakened walls to prevent a further inundation of the adjacent farm lands. It was expected that the force of men working in the common cause would be doubled along the twenty-five miles of river front before the day had passed.
